LESLIE MILLER
LEADS CONTEST

Wings Way Through Perilous Fogs Over Mountain Tops on Fourth Lap of Trip.

Chicago, September 19.—(AP)—A former army pilot, characterized by his flying "buddies" as the "luckiest fellow in the world," Leslie Miller, of Des Moines, Iowa, today winged his way through perilous fogs and over mountain tops to take the lead at the end of the fourth lap in the New York to Spokane air derby.

Flying alone in an Eaglerock plane, the Towan took the lead after a close contest in which 24 others were entered. Although he left Roosevelt field, New York, the starting place, in ninth place, at 6:10 a. m., eastern standard time, he arrived at the end of the fourth lap and where most of the contestants must stop over for the night, ahead of the flying pack at 4:43 p. m., Chicago daylight saving time, completing the 708 miles in 10 hours and 42 minutes or a time average of about 71 miles an hour, including time taken for three stops.

C. W. Meyer, Second.

A minute and a half behind Miller came C. W. Meyer, of Detroit, who led today's flight most of the way. Meyer, who was fifth to leave Roosevelt field in the chase for the $5,000 prize which awaits the pilot making the best time to Spokane, is flying a Waco-10 and is carrying a passenger, Thomas B. Colby.

J. S. Charles, of Richmond, Va., was next in another Eaglerock plane. He was the first to leave Roosevelt field this morning.

Others were slower in arriving at the airport here from the last stop at Bryan, Ohio.

Plane No. 46 was reported out of the race, having turned back to the starting field; No. 45 stopped at Cleveland for the night, while No. 52 stopped for the night at Bryan.

No. 40, piloted by Tex Lagrone, was unheard from here late tonight. Latest reports were from Bellefonte, Pa., where it was disqualified because of non-arrival. The fate of the plane is unknown here.

No. 46 did not start, and No. 53 was forced back by weather conditions.

The three leaders said the first leg of the flight, from New York to Bellefonte, Pa., was one of the most dangerous hops they had ever made because of the heavy rain and fog.

Miller Faces Trouble.

Miller, especially, said he had a difficult time.

"I believe it was the most dangerous hop I have ever made," he told the Associated Press. "Most of the way I had a visibility range of but 500 feet. When I was about 50 miles east of Bellefonte, it rained so hard that the magnetos of my machine got wet and the motor suddenly stopped. I looked about for a landing place, but all I could see for miles were tree tops. I worked on my engine as I was dropping and finally got one cylinder and then seven to working. I rode into Bellefonte on seven cylinders."

Meyer said that he was forced, because of the bad headwinds, fog and rain, to deviate from his course in the New York-Bellefonte hop, going way down to Reading, Pa.

"But after I had reached Bellefonte the weather was clear even though strong winds prevailed and I had to dodge in and about the hills and mountains," he added.

SNYDER-GRAY CASE IS SEEN IN JERSEY MURDER MYSTERY

Mrs. Margaret Lillien-dahl Released in $25,000
Bond as Willis Beach Is Grilled by Police.

BY FRANK DOLAN.
(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Hammon, N. J., September 19.—Broken and nerve shattered, Mrs. Margaret Lillien-dahl walked uncertainly from state troopers' local headquarters tonight, crushed by the knowledge that her four-day detention and questioning had left authorities frankly skeptical that she was telling the whole truth when she related how her 72-year-old husband, Dr. William Lillien-dahl, met a tragic death in a lonely Jersey woodland four days ago.

OSTENSIBLY FREE in $25,000 bail, but still under constant surveillance, the attractive brunette widow, 30 years younger than her slain neurologist husband, flinched under the cynical eyes of questioners as she left her Vineland home.

Tomorrow, still snared in a mesh of circumstances which to the investigators suggested the Hall-Mills and Snyder-Gray murders, the stricken widow will see the body of Dr. Lillien-dahl for the first time since she fled from the murder scene to tell a lurid tale of how two gigantic negroes robbed her husband and then shot him when he rushed to save her from attack by the pair after she had been stripped by them of her jewels—later found in the weeds a stone's throw distant.

Money Is Found.

The investigation into various mysterious phases of the killing, which Mrs. Lillien-dahl still insists was done by two negro hold-up men, has developed the fact, police say, that on the morning of the murder, last Thursday, Dr. Lillien-dahl drew $25 from the Tradesmen's National bank, of Vineland. All were new bills and these were found in Mrs. Lillien-dahl's purse after the "robbery," it is asserted.

While officials tonight would say nothing of what led them to being Beach, it was indicated that information dropped by Mrs. Lillien-dahl during her prolonged questioning was responsible.

Also, a letter to the widow in which the writer suggested the loan of $1,500 is believed to have been written by Beach. Investigating authorities have said that notes aggregating that much and signed by Beach are due in a local bank. Coupled with this was the questioning today of the postmistress of the town of South Vineland in an effort to substantiate information in police hands that Mrs. Lillien-dahl had been in the habit of receiving mail there in the name of Peggy Anderson.

Parallels Snyder-Gray Case.

As the case rapidly assumed a parallel to the famed Snyder-Gray murder case in Queens, New York, the spirits of Mrs. Lillien-dahl, "voluntary visitor" at state trooper headquarters, in Hammon, slumped. Heretofore she had been cheerful and almost gay, joking often with her questioners and while away the time when she was not being interrogated, in playing pinocle.

Since Mrs. Lillien-dahl, her clothing torn and bedraggled, staggered out of the Vineland home, she was taken to the Vineland hospital, where she was held for observation. Her husband's body was found in a wooded area near the Vineland home.

There was no doubt of the friendship of Beach for the Lillien-dahls and then came the loan request letter.

Leaders of Medical Pro- fession Offer No Hope To Mother in Cleveland Case.

WOMAN INSISTS
CHILD WAS BOY

Medical Tests Are Planned in Hope of Establishing Some Clue to Baby's Parentage.

Cleveland, Ohio, September 19.—(AP)—A mother's hope, hanked on the old age "blood will tell," was shattered tonight when she learned that masters of the medical profession agreed in conference today that "blood would not tell" whether the baby girl she nurses is her child.

Mrs. Sam Smith continued to insist that the baby girl in her arms had been given to her by hospital officials as the result of a shuffle a week after she gave birth to a boy.

No Conclusive Proof.

Leading Cleveland physicians and blood specialists called into conference by Judge Carl V. Weygant of common pleas court decided today that medical science could not conclusively prove that Mrs. Sam Smith is the mother of the girl she nurses, and that blood tests would serve only as flimsy evidence of the child's parentage.

Blood tests and other medical tests will be applied to the mother and child, however, in the hope that some clue might be found to establish the baby's parentage. John G. Spencer, Clyde O. Cummer, Herbert L. Koeckert, W. D. Clending and Garry C. Myers, were the physicians at the conference today.

"At such an early time after birth, it is impossible to tell the race or other facts leading to the identity of the parents of a child by blood tests," Dr. Koeckert declared. "It would be tragic to give a blood test and decide that the child was Mrs. Smith's daughter and then discover later that a mistake had been made. Evidence that medical science can offer in this case is too flimsy."

"Blood tests," Dr. Cummer, who will conduct the tests, said, "can not prove that the child is the daughter of Mrs. Smith, but they can prove that she is not."

Will Make Blood Tests.

It was on this hope to a clue that the decision to conduct blood tests was made.

Hundreds of letters have poured in from all corners of the nation and from several foreign countries, written by physicians, specialists, palmists and fanatics, suggesting methods of determining the child's parentage. Experts examining the suggestions turned over to them by Judge Weygant, say that most are worthless and without foundation.

Members of the Sam Smith convinced that one of the other Smith mothers, who are nursing baby boys born on the same day her child was, had been her boy, "Gladys Smith," refused to leave Fairview Park hospital.

City council Monday rejected a proposal to purchase additional school equipment totaling $40,326.96 on the grounds that the school board had not submitted the measure early enough for thorough consideration. Coupled with this action and after a heated debate, council virtually issued an ultimatum to the effect that a similar fate awaited all papers sent that body by the school board "too late for thorough investigation by the school committee."

Jensen's Lion Plane Crashes, Hitting Tree

Aviator Is Uninjured; Beast
Cage.

Globe, Ariz., September 19.—(AP)—Martin Jensen's lion-carrying plane, which took off Friday from San Diego for New York, was wrecked when it came down on top of a grove of trees in Tonto Basin last afternoon, he told the latter said tonight when he returned from the H-Bar ranch. Jensen appeared at the ranch early this afternoon.

Jensen was said to have been forced down the day the flight started by severe electrical storms.

Boardman said Jensen escaped without injury except for a cut over the right eye, and that Leo, his lion passenger, still was in his steel cage in the wreckage. Jensen told Boardman the plane turned over when it struck the trees and landed on one side.

Jensen related, according to Boardman, that he was flying fast when he hit the trees. He then set out to find his way from the mountains and followed the twisting course of Tonto creek for three days, when he arrived at the H-Bar.

Wife Aids Search.

Mrs. Martin Jensen, the aviator's wife, has been flying over the deserts of southeastern California in a monoplane sent out by the B. F. Mahoney Airplane corporation, of San Diego, which built Jensen's plane, searching for her husband. She now is at Yuma, Ariz.

The attempt to transport "Leo" to New York by air was made to determine the feasibility of moving per-

4 MEXICANS HELD IN WARLIKE PLOT

U. S. Officers and Police Break Up Plan to Cap- ture Lower Californian Cities.

Los Angeles, September 19.—(AP)—Police and federal officers late today raided what they declared was the meeting place of an organization of Mexicans plotting the capture of Tijuana, Mexicali, and other cities at strategic points in Lower California, Mexico.

Four machine guns and rifles, shotguns and ammunition were seized, said the officers, who smashed down the doors of the place upon a report that a "war council" was in progress. Sixteen men, all Mexicans, were taken into custody on suspicion of conspiring against a friendly nation in violation of United States neutrality laws but later the police announced that all but four had been released.

The officers refused to reveal the names of the four held, whom they accused of having been the leaders in a revolutionary plot.

BY CAPTAIN JOHN W. THOMAS, JR.

A pen picture of the legion parade in Paris by the brilliant author of "Big Boy" and "Red Pants," who fought in France with the fifth regiment of native Special Cable Dispatch to The Constitution and North American News paper Alliance.

Paris, September 19.—The war flags of two republics were massed today on the Place de la Concorde, where one remembers the German cannon massed at the time of the armistice, and the sweep of the Tuilleries on the left hand and passed up to the Place de l'Etoile.

Toward the Trocadero, with the slim height of the Eiffel tower gracefully visible through the cross streets, you began to find the congestion due to the parade of the American Legion. Taxis went no farther, even though a delegate from the Cafe De La Paix assured a sergeant De Ville ti. his taxi was one of the gallant machines which took the Seventh French division to the battle of the Marne in 1914, thus rating a place in the veterans parade.

All Had to Walk.

So you got out and walked. Every street giving upon the Place d'Enfer held some kind of a mass shaking itself into shape. Flags nodded in this way and that and finally came into line and rearranged themselves under the blue gold banners of the legion posts. Blue, orange and white caps,

Council Also Passes Measures To Seek Ap- propriations From Coun- ty and Rail Lines.

TO RUSH WORK
BEFORE WINTER

Differences With Power Company Settled as Arkwright Offers Con-cern's Aid to City.

Three important moves designed to speed up beginning of work on the Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts were made Monday by city council.

They were authorization of Chief of Construction William A. Hansell to advertise for bids for lowering of railroad tracks over which the bridges will be erected; passage of measures designed to secure an appropriation of $500,000 from Fulton county and another of about $400,000 from the railroads, and approval of a contract with Walter F. Shultz, of Memphis, as consulting engineer.

These details are destined to clear the way for letting contracts in order to expedite work and complete depression of the tracks before the heavy winter tourist season is begun to Florida through Atlanta.

Sequence of operations already has been worked out at a special meeting of engineers representing affected interests, so that when plans for the lowering of the rail tracks reach here the latter part of the week or the first part of next, Mr. Hansell can advertise at once for bids. Actual work can be begun before October 15, it was said.

Appropriations from Fulton county, railroads and from the $1,000,000 bond issue for the viaducts will push the total for the projects to approximately $1,000,000. It has been estimated that the bridges can be constructed with this fund, and without contribution from the Georgia Power company.

Announcement was made Saturday by Preston S. Arkwright, president of the company, that his company will donate enough money to assure actual erection of viaducts in the event the city finds it cannot construct them without additional funds.

Mr. Arkwright's proposal was made without condition or restraint. The bridge committee of council has fallen in with the proposal, which will be presented to the city board of public works and ordinance committee for their consideration.

Erection of the first exclusive child's hospital for treatment of all types of medical and surgical cases with exception of contagious diseases for children from birth to 12 years of age, in accordance with the principal bequest of the late Thomas Eggleston, philanthropist and noted business leader of Atlanta, who died in 1916, will soon be started, it was learned Monday with announcement that the final working plans are more than three-fourths completed. Morgan, Dillon & Lewis, Atlanta architects, are in charge of the project.

The initial unit of the institution, to be known as the Henrietta Eggleston Memorial hospital, in honor of Mr. Eggleston's mother, as requested by the philanthropist in his will, will consist of a handsome three-story structure to cost between $150,000 and $175,000 for the building and furnishings. It will be located in a quiet section of the city on an eight-acre tract, bounded by the Forrest avenue extension, Fortune street and Angier road, which the memorial fund owns.

In direct charge of the hospital is the board of trustees, consisting of W. R. Prescott, manager of the Hartford Fire Insurance company; Dr. W. W. # SAGE FUNDS TO AID LOAN SHARK FIGHT

Atlanta Praised for War

sistance of Foundation
Is Pledged.

PLANS TO STOP
PRACTICE TOLD

Local Attorneys Cooper-

Headed by Jas. L. Boyd, of Legal Aid Society.

New York, September 19.—(AP)—The resources of the Russell Sage foundation were pledged today to end the activities of the loan shark and the salary buyer, at a conference of the National Better Business Bureau. Delegates from 42 bureaus of larger cities attended today's session, the first of four.

Methods of stamping out the loan shark were discussed by Leon Henderson, director of the department of remedial loans of the Sage foundation. He commended the better business bureau for its attacks on the evil, notably in Atlanta, Ga., where the first of the salary buyers, known as the big four, were driven out of business.

The Russell Sage uniform small loan law has been passed in 24 states, he said, and legislation aimed at the loan shark has been enacted in New Jersey, Virginia, Maryland and Wisconsin, with similar laws pending in New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Iowa, Illinois and Michigan.

Mr. Henderson assured the better business bureaus of the aid of the Russell Sage foundation in prosecuting all cases of salary buying and usurious practices.

Leading railroads, especially in North Carolina and South Carolina, Mr. Henderson said, are adding the drive on usurers by protecting their employees from payment of excessive interest demanded by salary buyers. In Kansas City, he said, a local ordinance has curbed the loan shark after 60 workers had been forced into bankruptcy.

In Alabama, he said, the shark has put up his strongest battle for existence and legislation against him has failed of passage. In that state, he said, the negro and the poor white are the greatest victims of the usurist.

FIGHT HAS BEEN GOING ON HERE TWO YEARS.

A fight on the loan sharks of Atlanta was started more than two years ago by James L. Boyd, attorney for the Atlanta Legal Aid society, and was sponsored by the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce and is still in progress, according to Mr. Boyd. One case has been tried in the courts and approximately 25 other cases are slated to be tried in the near future.

MURDER CHARGE PLACED AGAINST FIVE AT JASPER

Four Men Arrested in Slaying of Officer Cape
Are Placed in Atlanta
Jail for Safety.

C. L. Smith, Carter Wilson,
Hoyt Evans and Carter Jones, who were arrested in Pickens county Monday in connection with the murder of W. L. Cape, policeman of that county, were brought to Atlanta Monday night and placed in the Fulton county tower for safe-keeping.

Jasper, Ga., September 19.—(Special).—Warrants charging five persons with the murder of W. L. Cape, policeman of Picken county, were issued here today after the dismembered body of the officer was found 40 miles from the spot where he is supposed to have been slain late Saturday afternoon. Those for whom warrants were taken are C. L. Smith, Carter Wilson, Hoyt Evans, Carter Jones and Lindsey Evans.

Lindsey Evans is still at large, but the others were arrested today and placed in the local jail but were taken to Atlanta tonight to be placed in the Fulton county tower. While there have been no intimations of any attempt at violence against the men, they were sent to Atlanta as a matter of precaution, officers stated.

Officers say that two of the parties held have partially confessed to knowledge of the crime and say that Cape was killed by Lindsey Evans during the attempted search of Evans' automobile by Cape.

Heinous Crime.

With the chance finding of the body of Cape today by a hunter in the mountain section reveals one of the most gruesome killings ever to occur in north Georgia. Rex Sherman, the hunter, accidentally ran upon the remains of Cape early today about five miles southeast of Adairsville on a lonely road about three miles from the Dixie highway.

The body was found on one side of the road and the head on the other, several hundred feet apart, Sherman stated. The officer was stripped of clothing except his socks, his wearing apparel being found at another spot several hundred yards from the body. After an inquest was held by the Bartow county coroner, the verdict of which was that Cape came to his death at the hands of parties unknown to the jury, the body was removed to Canton and thence to Jasper.

Cape was shot three times, the body containing loads of buck shot, officers said today after the remains were examined.

According to the alleged confession of the parties held, Cape was killed by Lindsey Evans near a home of Carter Wilson, one of the men held, when the officer attempted to search Evans' automobile for whisky. The confession states that after Cape was slain, Lindsey Evans placed the body in the coupe of his brother, Hoyt Evans, and drove off. Later, according to Hoyt Evans, his brother, Lindsey, returned with the blood-stained car but that he did not "want it

Realizing the educational importance of the Southeastern fair as a medium for farm rehabilitation along sound economic lines, Professor I. W. Duggan, head of the division of education at Clemson college, will bring a group of 30 students to the fair, which opens October 1, to observe results of diversified farming in the southeast during the past year.

The party will be guests of the Southeastern fair association during their stay here, and will camp at the fair grounds so that they may make a close study of the strides the cow, hog and hen program has made and its advantage to the southern agriculturist.

Announcement of the advent of the students was made Monday by Arthur L. Brooke, president, and J. Oscar Mills, secretary of the fair association.

While Americans Cele- brates Day, Communists Hold Sacco-Vanvetti Meeting in Suburb.

AMERICAN, FRENCH
FLAGS TORN DOWN

Colorful Pageant Is
Staged in French Capital
When Immense Crowd
Sees Legion March.

Paris, September 19.—(AP)—American and French flags were torn down, several shots fired and a lot of noses punched in an anti-American Legion demonstration at Clichy today. The extremists had gathered at this place outside the city because of the police precautions taken to prevent demonstrations in Paris. Clichy is a communist community and the place where the reds gather regularly on Sunday and police only interfere when trouble starts.

RED PARADES HELD IN FRENCH TOWNS.

Paris, September 19.—(United News).—While the American legionnaires were parading here, 50,000 reds met in the suburbs of Clichy to inaugurate the "Place Sacco-Vanvetti" and to denounce capitalism, the United States, the legion, and other institutions.

Auffray, the communist mayor of Clichy, and others denounced the legion "fascist." There were red flags everywhere, and the crowd sang the "Internationale," the red anthem.

Returning to Paris, the communists hoisted an American flag they saw flying from a window in the Avenue Victor Hugo, when someone fired a revolver shot in the air.

There were red parades, with denunciations and songs, at other towns, including Lille, Marseilles, St. Etienne and Grenoble, participants numbering several thousands.

At Roubaix French veterans held a counter demonstration, their band playing the "Star-Spangled Banner."

GREAT TRIBUTE PAID TO LEGION BY PARIS.

Paris, September 19.—(AP)—The American Legion marched into the hearts of the French today. The men who fought for France "came back home," and hundreds of thousands of the French populace, their eyes dim as they thought of the war time, cheered the Americans as they marched along. Overcome with emotion many women along the route of the parade wept.

Each of the 14,000 men of the legion and several thousand of their mothers, sisters and wives passed under the Arc de Triomphe. As tribute to the French unknown soldier buried there the legionnaires passed with their hats off and their colors dipped in salute. As each passed he dropped some red, white and blue flowers around the grave. Some of the flowers had built around that tomb a wall of fragrant and tender tribute that hid from view the flame of memory that burns there.

Rain Falls.

Rain fell as the procession was being formed and came again as it started, but soon the weather brightened. There was a guard for each of the 14,000 legionnaires in the line of march, but none was needed. The 14,000 soldiers and policemen were grouped along its route or waiting in

"When my daughter was six months old her face began to break out with pimples. They were large and red and itched, and the irritation was so severe that she scratched and caused the trouble to spread. She could not sleep, and we often had to get up in the night with her. My father suggested Cuticura Soap and Ointment so we purchased some and after three months of suffering she got relief. After using them three weeks she was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Donald P. Whitcomb, Box 57, Pikesville, Md., Aug. 18, 1936.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum are ideal for daily toilet uses. Soap is sold everywhere. Talcum and Ointment are sold by mail. Address: Cuticura, P.O. Box 100, New York, N. Y.

Mrs. Howard Dies.
(By Associated Press.)
New York, September 19.—Mrs. Evelyn Howard, 20, a widow, fell dead today while dressing in her West 96th street apartment. Mrs. Howard worked as a candy maker. Police were told her father, Richard Smith, is a retired naval officer of San Francisco, and a sister, Mrs. Garnet Phillips, is married to a wealthy gin-seed manufacturer of Baltimore.

forming beasts quickly from one point to another for show purposes. Flashed Like Lightning.
Jensen left Kearney field, near San Diego, last Friday at 10:11 a. m. His plane is similar to the one in which Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh flew Paris.

The lion rode in a specially constructed cage in the passenger's compartment of the plane. He took the air in the same docile mood which characterized his work before the camera.

Jensen carried a radio transmitting set with him, strapped to his right leg. Nothing was received from him, however, though many sets were tuned to his 40-meter wave length.

Not until yesterday and today were any definite reports received of his plane being sighted. The monoplane was traced along the lower California border in Sunday reports and today several persons reported having seen it near Phoenix.

Quick Quaker
THE price you pay for substitutes is the same as for the genuine Quaker Oats. The difference is in the flavor. And flavor, above all things, is important in oats.

That rich and tasty Quaker flavor is the result of some 50 years' milling experience. Once you taste it, you are spoiled for ordinary oats.

RACERS IN AIR DERBY REACH CHICAGO GOAL

tomorrow morning on the second of the trans-continental air races held as part of the national air meet at Spokane, Wash.

The race, scheduled to start at 5:30 a. m., eastern standard time, tomorrow, is for commercial planes, capable of carrying a pilot and two passengers. Winners are to be awarded a first prize of $10,000, second $5,000, third $2,000, fourth $1,000 and fifth $500. The competitors will fly approximately 2,975 miles.

Entrants in Race.
The fifteen entrants are R. Hudson, Marysville, Mich.; E. K. Campbell, Cleveland, N. W. Cleveland, of Cleveland, Ohio; W. Holman, St. Paul; E. E. Ballough, Chicago; E. H. Lee, Chicago; John P. Woods, Wausau, Wis.; Emil Bargin, Minneapolis, N. Y.; Frank M. Hawks, Houston, Texas; N. B. Mamer, Spokane; James S. Rae, Philadelphia; Tex Rankin, Portland, Ore.; G. O'Donnell, Whittier, Calif.; L. T. Royal, Flint, Mich.; and R. S. Fogg, Concord, New Hampshire.

Although the rules require that their planes be heavy enough to carry two passengers, the pilots are permitted to carry ballast instead. Some of the pilots, however, announced they would carry passengers on the westward race.

The first race, for lighter commercial planes capable of carrying only one passenger besides the pilot, began at 8:01 a. m., eastern standard time, today.

Last Start Wednesday.
The last of the trans-continental air derbies, a non-stop race from Roosevelt field to Pelee field, is to start from here on Wednesday. Thus far, only two of the seven entrants have registered. Eddie Stinson, Detroit airplane builder, and Duke Schiller, whose proposed Windsor, Canada, to Windsor, England, flight was recently cancelled.

Schiller's is the only Canadian entry in the race. His plane, the Royal Windsor, was built by Stinson. A first prize of $10,000 and a second of $5,000 are offered the winners of this race. The pilots are permitted to follow any course they choose.

Schiller today flew his plane to Teheron, N. J., where his engine was overhauled.

around" and he himself drove the car to near Fairmount, where it was found today.

The car was found, officers said, after Host Evans told them where he left it and gave them the key which enabled them to drive the machine to Jasper, where it is held. The car is bloodstained inside.

Robbed of Gun.
Officer Cape was driven to the scene of his death in his own car by his grandson, Suber Cape, and Will Jowers, both young men, who were told by the officer to return for him in a few hours. As they were leaving the neighborhood where they left Cape, Suber Cape says he was accosted by some of the men now held in jail in the case, who took a shotgun from their car and in the altercation one of the boys in the Cape car was cut.

Later when they returned for the officer and he could not be found, they returned home and reported his absence and a search was begun which continued all day Sunday and until the body was found today.

In the meantime officers investigating the case arrested the four persons held in jail on a charge of complicity with the crime, the charge of murder being placed against them after the body of Officer Cape was found today.

County Commissioner M. S. Long, of Pickens county, has offered a reward of $500 for the arrest of the murderers of Cape and the governor has been requested to offer a reward on the part of the state.

Officer Cape was a well known figure in north Georgia, having gained much renown as a fearless officer and a relentless foe of the whisky traffic. He was formerly U. S. deputy marshal with headquarters at Rome and other north Georgia points. Cape is survived by his widow, two daughters and two sons.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Hinton, Ga., 12 miles west of Adairsville.

reserve, but there was no disorder in Paris except the frenzy of cheer.

Many of the spectators wore mourning bands and many saw the parade with quickened hearts as they remembered again the days of the war and visualized these men in tin hats trudging along for the line of fire where their own kin fought and died.

Throughout the whole of France and her colonies it was America's Legion day. Every city was flag bedecked and often little ceremonies marked this, the first official holiday ever declared by France in honor of her foreign friends.

Convention Opens.
The convention opened this morning in the Palais du Trocadero. At its session, which lasted two hours, President Doumergue, of France, surrounded by most of his cabinet, welcomed the American soldiers back to France. Wartime friendships and good will were voiced again in the addresses of General John J. Pershing, National Commander Howard P. Savage and of the legion, Julian M. Thomas, legion department commander, of France, and Shelton Whitehouse, American charge d'affaires, who took the place of Ambassador Herrick, who is ill in America.

For Paris, the heart of France, "la grande parade" was the whole thing. At least one million Parisians were packed along the four-mile line of parade, behind the bayonets of the police, the white buttons of the police and the sleek courses of the mounted republican guard. Rooms and windows everywhere along the route and some quite a distance from the parade were filled with French faces. No traffic was allowed to move along the line of march during the entire afternoon.

As the American legion met the women of the auxiliary started their convention in a similar spirit. General Gouraud spoke to them in behalf of the army, and Andrew Tardieu, in behalf of the government, told the women how grateful France still is to them, not only for giving their reserve, but also for their work in the war, and above all for the spiritual influence they exerted during the war. The American women in their turn, through Mrs. Adeline Wright Macaulay, national president of the auxiliary, thanked their French sisters for "what you did for our boys."

PARIS REDS STAGE ANTI-LEGION RIOTS

At the head of the parade rode a mounted platoon of the republican guards. Behind them came their band, one of the most famous military bands in the world, and three companies of French soldiers in horizon blue, their bayonets rising high above their bobbing heads. Then came a car carrying General Pershing, Marshal Foch and Commander Savage to the reviewing stand, where a group of women and girls from Alsace-Lorraine, dressed in their native costumes, with great black bows two feet wide, tied in their unbobbed hair, greeted them and presented a flag to Pershing and flowers to Commander Savage.

The first delegation to pass in review was that from Florida, led by a band from St. Petersburg strikingly attractive in their uniforms and helmets of orange, with the "out-strutting drum major of them all." They played "Madelon" as they passed the stand and so did half of the other bands which followed.

Many times the strains of "Over There" were heard and at times the very atmosphere seemed to beat against the ear drums with the tilt of "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

"Madelon," however, was the popular piece of the day and all along the route French spectators sang the words as the American musicians played the air.

Florida Band Present.
The band from Jacksonville, Fla., came along in uniforms of blue and helmets as silver as the wings of Lindbergh's plane, which many recalled today as once again the city of Paris was overwhelmed with pro-American emotion.

Miami's musicians were next in white suits, trimmed with black and orange. Then came doughboys from Delaware and men from Arizona in the wide-brimmed hats of the great open spaces. A band from Greenville, Ohio, in grey blue military uniforms came next. Indiana followed, women forming a prominent part of this delegation. All of them dressed in white skirts, shoes and stockings, with blue tunics lined with orange.

Illinois was next and a big delegation it was. The Kankakee band in uniforms of black neatly striped with white formed one of the brightest spots in the parade. Next came Louisiana and the French crowd showed it did not forget that Louisiana was once French territory and still cherishes in its civilization much of its inheritance from this country.

"Madelon" Wins Crowd.
For several minutes the parade was halted while these two plump and jolly westerners played "Madelon" in front of Foch, whose grandfatherly old face was bright with smiles and all around in Place de la Concorde the crowd chimed in with the words of the poem's favorite wartime marching song. The cornetist triple-tongued his golden instrument as no other cornet was ever triple-tongued before, the man with the accordion accompanying him in his music and his monkey-shines like a real buddy on a lark.

West Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas followed next to the music of a drum and bugle corps from Charlotte, N. C., all dressed in red, white and blue.

Groups representing Italy, China, Cuba, Panama, London, Greece and finally the Paris post of the legion with a squad of mounted republican guards brought up the rear.

COLONIAL HIGHWAY TOURISTS ARRIVE

Members of the New Orleans tourist party making an official log of the "Colonial Highway" were entertained Monday by officials of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon and afterward escorted to Lawrenceville on their way east.

The two cars of motorists arrived at noon, coming by Mobile, Montgomery and West Point. They are interested in the proper marking of a continuous highway, using existing roads, from New Orleans to New York, through Atlanta, Greenville, Spartanburg, Charlotte, Richmond and Philadelphia to New York.

One of the cars, after leaving Atlanta, went by Athens, and the other by Gainesville and Cornelia, to compare the two roads to the South Carolina line.

In the party of visitors were Gilbert J. Fortier, chairman of the Colonial highway committee of the New Orleans Association of Commerce; George W. Carnes, secretary of the tourist division of that association; T. Semmes Walmsley, vice mayor of New Orleans; Hughes P. Walmsley, W. Scott Hammond and James P. Welsh, automobile editor of the Times-Picayune. Mrs. Fortier and Mrs. T. Semmes Walmsley accompanied their husbands. The tourists were joined at West Point by Sam Kallenburgh and Tip Coffee, editor of the West Point News.

Chamber of commerce representatives who greeted the visitors at luncheon included former Senator Hoke Smith, B. S. Barker, Henderson Hallman, Channing Cope, Rogers Winter and Frank T. Reynolds.

Veterans of '65 To See 'Parade' As City's Guests

Veterans who braved storms of shot and shell in the War Between the States will get an opportunity of witnessing how their sons and grandsons faced dangers on foreign battlefields when they will be taken to Log's Grand theater Tuesday afternoon as special guests of the city council to enjoy a performance of "The Big Parade," the noted epic of the world war.

Confederate veterans from the Atlanta Confederate Soldiers' home will assemble at the city hall Tuesday and will march to Log's Grand headed by a band. The invitation to the old soldiers grew out of an idea of Councilman Ellis Barrett.

"I was out driving near the Soldiers' home Sunday and saw some posters advertising 'The Big Parade.' When I glanced at these pictures I thought of the old soldiers who fought in the War Between the States and was curious to learn what ideas they had on modern warfare. This gave me the idea of having the city council of Atlanta act as official host. Later I saw Manager Thomas H. James, of Log's Grand, who provided the right kind of cooperation and to make the affair a notable one, furnished a brass band to render martial strains for the old soldiers when they march up to witness 'The Big Parade.'"

This is one of the first times the city council of Atlanta has served as an entertainment committee for a theater party for the old veterans, but the members expressed keen approval of the idea when it was placed before that body Monday by Mr. Barrett.

Several city officials will serve in the capacity as hosts for the veterans when they meet Tuesday to march to Log's Grand theater. Manager James will reserve a special section of good seats for the veterans.

G. B. LYLE TAKES SEAT IN COUNCIL FROM 11TH WARD

George B. Lyle, councilman-elect from the 11th ward, Monday was seated in that body with Councilman

GEORGE B. LYLE.

Leo Sudderth resigned his post because he has moved from the ward. Mr. Sudderth did not offer in the last primary on account of pressure of business, and Mr. Lyle was the successful candidate for the position thus vacated.

Council expressed regret at the withdrawal of Mr. Sudderth. Mr. Lyle's election to fill the post was unanimous.

J. Harvey Lester, of the Fourth National bank, Monday was elected as a trustee of the Carnegie library from the twelfth ward to fill the position left vacant by the removal of W. D. Hall from the ward.

A. E. DYER'S DEATH DECLARED SUICIDE

A coroner's verdict of "death caused by gunshot wounds in stomach and back, self-inflicted with suicidal intent" was returned Monday morning at an inquest held over the body of Albert E. Dyer, 57, veteran baggage-master of the Southern railway, who was found dead in a bedroom in the home of his aunt, Mrs. John Tolbert, 703 Oak street, with whom he had been residing.

The body of Mr. Dyer was removed to the undertaking parlors of Barclay & Brandon company, pending funeral arrangements which have not been completed.

Mr. Dyer's lifeless body was found about 7 o'clock Monday morning by members of his family and beside it were two notes, one addressed to John Tolbert, his uncle, and another to the proprietress of his boarding house in Brunswick, Ga., where he stayed while stopping over at that end of his run.

On a chair nearby was found, neatly laid out, a suit of clothes. A note pinned to the suit read: "Send my body to Barclay & Brandon's and bury me in these clothes."

The note to Mr. Tolbert said: "I am preparing to leave this world. I regret very much to do it, but I can't see anything else to do. Had a business failure, had to borrow money and I owe someone I can't pay. It will only be a matter of time before I lose my job."

Mr. Dyer came in about 10 o'clock Sunday night and went immediately to his room, according to Mr. and Mrs. Tolbert. About 12:30 o'clock, W. J. Davis, who lives next door, heard the report of a gun, he told police, but did not investigate, as he "didn't notice any disturbance about the house."

Early Monday morning, when Mr. Dyer did not answer the usual call to breakfast, an investigation led to the discovery of his body.

In addition to his aunt, Mr. Dyer is survived by two uncles, A. A. Hope, of Gainesville, Ga., and Eley Hope, of Banks county.

Hammond Foiled In Try at Escape, In Solitary Cell

Alone, all, all alone in a nice, new cell, Harold Hammond, condemned murderer, whose escape plot was nipped in the bud Sunday afternoon by Deputy Sheriffs J. D. Bazemore and R. T. Tolbert, Monday was shut off from all communication with other prisoners in order to prevent the hatching of a new escape plan.

Hammond is now confined on the first floor in the same cell block with Jack Lance and other prisoners under the death sentence, but is not allowed to mingle with his cell mates in the "bull pen" as heretofore. He is under frequent surveillance, and every precaution has been taken by the jailers to keep him in confinement.

Quizzed Monday by jail authorities, Hammond is alleged to have said that he will yet escape from the jail, and that he will quickly find a new mode of leaving the tower. The alleged co-conspirators in the escape plot have been confined in other parts of the jail.

Two of those alleged to have been in on the plan, Raymond Tart and G. G. Davis, entered pleas of guilty Monday morning in federal court and were sentenced. Tart was given 15 months in prison for violation of the national motor vehicle theft act, while Davis was sentenced to 15 months also, for selling morphine.

W. H. Gay, the fourth member of the quartet of alleged escape plotters, will be tried in Fulton superior court before Judge John D. Humphries on Wednesday of next week on forgery charges.

To the collection of saws made from table knives found in Hammond's cell, a fifth saw was added Monday on a further search of the cell. Jailers are still looking for a steel back saw Hammond is believed to have used.

JOHN C. MACKAY GIVEN HIGH POST BY DISPLAY MEN

John C. Mackay, widely-known display manager for the M. Rich & Bros. Co., has been notified of a signal honor paid him by the International Association of Display Men in his appointment to the post of assistant educational director in this territory for the international organization, which has headquarters in Chicago.

In this new capacity Mr. Mackay will act for the international display men's body in giving service to outside organizations, such as retailers' meetings and conventions, making addresses on window displays and in some cases demonstrating their make-up and value.

Mr. Mackay, who is known locally for the impressive window and interior displays of Rich's, is one of the most prominent figures in his line in the entire country.

CONTRACT TO USE CERTAIN GAS, OIL, BINDING, DECISION

Filling station proprietors who agree to handle a specified brand of oil and gas in their stations under contract with oil companies must continue to use such oil and gas during the life of the contract, according to a decision handed down Monday by the supreme court in a case appealed from Taylor county.

The higher court ruled that such contracts are legal in Georgia and declared that they are not merely "personal covenants," but are, covenants "running with the land."

The supreme court also handed down a decision in a case appealed from Floyd county in which it held that a trial judge had the right to dismiss proceedings in his court when an attorney bringing such proceedings fails to continue with the case. A lawyer sought to stop his case because one phase of it had been appealed to the supreme court and declined to go on with it. The trial judge then dismissed the entire proceedings and an appeal on the act was taken to the supreme court which upheld the judge of the lower court in his action.

MRS. MATTIE MURPHY RETURNED TO TOWER

Fully recovered from the effects of poison taken Saturday night with alleged suicidal intent, Mrs. Mattie C. Murphy, alleged bad check passer, was returned to Fulton Tower Monday from Grady hospital.

Mrs. Murphy, who is held under five counts of passing bad checks, took 12 tablets of potassium permanganate Saturday night, but prompt action by the jail authorities and physicians saved her life, it was reported.

SINGING CONTEST TO BE HELD SUNDAY

A big singing under the auspices of the South Side Baptist church will be held Sunday afternoon from 2 until 4 o'clock at the church on Capitol avenue, it was announced Monday by J. Austin Brooks, church chorister.

Cash prizes will be given winners of a quartette contest and already the Dixie, Stansell, Independent, Big Rock, Raymond and the Sunshine quartettes have entered the contest. Judges for the contest will be Margaret A. Battle, Mrs. William Owens, and Homer Morris, singing instructors.

DR. S. L. SILVERMAN BACK FROM MEETING

Dr. S. L. Silverman, clinical professor of oral surgery and professor of anesthesia at the Atlanta-Southern Dental college, returned to Atlanta Monday from a trip to Cincinnati, Ohio, where he read before the Cincinnati Dental society September 16 a paper entitled, "A Discussion of Some of the Frequent Causes of Failures and Accidents in the Administration of Local Anesthesia, and their Prevention."

SELMAN BREAKS BACK IN TWO-STORY FALL

Mobile, Ala., September 19.—(P)—Joseph Martinez, 57, well-known resident of Selma, Ala., fell thirty feet from the second story of the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Booth, here today and sustained a broken back. He was sleeping in a room and on waking up stepped out on a gallery from which a railing had been removed. His condition is very serious.

FLORIDA EX-JUSTICE IS GIVEN LIFE TERM

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., September 19.—(P)—W. A. Hicks, justice of the peace and former chief deputy of Broward county, was sentenced this morning by Judge L. L. Parks, of Tampa, to life imprisonment at Raiford for the murder of R. B. Barber in August, 1925.

DRASTIC CHANGES IN PARKING RULES

Sweeping revision of parking laws in the center of the Atlanta business district which are designed to speed up movement of vehicles in the congested areas of Peachtree and Whitehall streets were passed Monday by city council and will go to Acting Mayor W. Guy Dobbs for approval.

Peachtree street from Baker to North avenue will be included in the one-hour parking district; the south side of Medical place, in front of the Medical arts building will be non-parking, and the east side of Whitehall street from the intersection of Forsyth street to Stewart avenue will be non-parking from 7 until 9 o'clock in the mornings, and the west side non-parking from 4 until 6 o'clock in the afternoons. If the mayor sanctions council's action.

This will permit customers to visit the shopping district which has developed on Peachtree street, and will relieve congestion on Whitehall street at the time of its heaviest congestion each day, according to Councilman Harry York, chairman of the traffic committee of city council, who offered the papers.

MOBILE PAIR JAILED ON NEW DRY STATUTE

Mobile, Ala., September 19.—(P)—Accused of violating the new state prohibition law clause which makes a felony of transporting more than 15 gallons of liquor, two young men, residents of the county, George Mills, 18, and Robert Harris, 19, are on the docket at the county jail today while evidence in their case is scrutinized by the office of the county solicitor.

"You win. It'll pay me to borrow the money."

(One Minute-Thirty Seconds Reading Time)

THIS is the story of a big business man who wanted to furnish his new home, and didn't have the cash on hand.

He and his wife had heard of our values, but the question was, how could they pay for a whole house-full of furniture at once? They had looked through other stores—talked to interior decorators. And then finally the husband said to us:

"Suppose you show us the furnishings for our new house—all the things you think it needs. I haven't the money in the bank, but if you can show me where I'll save by it, I'll borrow money and pay cash."

We selected the things carefully—showed them how we could furnish their home beautifully and completely. They looked at the furniture—examined the price tags—and the sale was closed.

This business man borrowed the money to furnish his home; paid interest on the money, and after figuring it up, he told us, "It pays me to borrow money—in order to buy from you."

Naturally, merchandise at Philibosian's is always marked at the lowest possible prices. We don't have to mark up things at a big profit to make allowance for marking them down in special sales—because we never have a special or cut-price sale. We sell for strictly cash, pay no salaries to credit men or collectors, and we never have a credit loss. Every piece is plainly marked at the same price for everybody.

You can always buy furniture, rugs and draperies at Philibosian's at the lowest possible prices. Come in and prove it for yourself by comparison. You'll find no "high-hat," "exclusive," "high-priced" atmosphere in this store, but instead just a human, friendly welcome from human, friendly people who want to be of service to you and who are glad to show you around whether you want to buy a thing or not.

TRUE STORIES FROM THE LIFE OF A GREAT STORE

MATTHEW KIMES TO DIE IN CHAIR

Oklmulgee, Okla., September 19.—(AP)—The electric chair loomed tonight as the final stage setting for the brief, but dramatic career of Matthew Kimes, dapper young Oklahoma bandit.

A jury in district court here today sentenced Kimes to death ten minutes after it reported that it was hopelessly disagreed upon the degree of punishment that should be given him.

Kimes was found guilty yesterday of complicity in the murder of W. J. McAnally, chief of police at Beggs, Okla., and the remainder of the jury's deliberations were devoted to determining the punishment.

Kimes smiled, although wanly, when the sentence was announced. No word was spoken by his counsel and he was led back to his cell in silence.

Formal sentence was not pronounced by Judge James S. Sayers, who presided. Under a state law, six months must elapse to give time for an appeal before execution.

McAnally was killed when he gave battle to a gang of bandits who robbed two banks in Beggs last May. Kimes, who had been a phantom figure after six friends rescued him from the Sequoyah county jail, where he was awaiting the imposition of a life sentence, was captured under the name of the Grand Canyon in Arizona in July. The state brought him to trial here with the avowed purpose of obtaining the death penalty, since he already was under sentence of life imprisonment for a murder conviction in Sequoyah county.

The state did not contend that Kimes was the actual slayer of the Beggs chief. Several witnesses have identified Roy Brandon, a cripple, as the slayer. Brandon's trial began today immediately after the Kimes verdict was announced. Brandon's attorneys waged an all-day fight for a change of venue to Creek county, Brandon's home, charging that newspaper stories had destroyed his chances for an impartial trial in Oklahoma county.

Two other alleged members of the Kimes gang are awaiting trial. They are Clyde Brandon, Roy's brother, and Jack Whitehead. Another alleged member, "Blackie" Robinson, pleaded guilty to bank robbery last week, received a ten-year sentence and turned state's evidence against Kimes. Because of the death penalty, an attempt failed to break on the part of Matthew Kimes or friends of his outside of the jail, it was announced tonight that no visit to Kimes was allowed in the jail until Kimes had been removed to McAlester.

Women Shatter Ancient Rule At Chapel Hill

Chapel Hill, N. C., September 19.—(AP)—By right of full fledged membership voted them by the trustees last commencement, women today attended a faculty meeting at the University of North Carolina for the first time in the 133 years of the institution.

It was the first faculty meeting of the year and the chief business at hand was the announcement of changes and preparations for the new session to be opened formally Friday.

Two women occupied chairs in Pharmacy Hall, where the meeting was held. They were Miss Sallie B. Marks, lately supervisor of grades in the public schools of LaCrosse, Wis., and Miss Cecilia H. Bacon, until recently head of the department of primary methods in the East Tennessee State Teachers' college. Both have the rank of assistant professor and they are the first two women to be given membership in the faculty. Their work will be with the school of education and the appointment was made "in order to facilitate the service of the school of education in advanced and graduate instruction for elementary school teachers and supervisors."

WALKER, GOURAUD CHAT AT DINNER TO LEGIONNAIRES

Paris, September 19.—(United Press)—Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, and General G. Gouraud, one-armed war hero and military governor of Paris, had a chat tonight at the dinner French war veterans gave in honor of the American Legion. Walker sat beside Marshal Foch. Observing General Gouraud in a distant corner, Walker immediately asked whether he could not go see him. Gouraud's aide-de-camp was informed, and came with an invitation for Walker to visit the general's table. Walker jumped up at once to accept "a great honor" and joined the general.

CALIFORNIANS PLAN CENTRAL AMERICAN AVIATION SERVICE

Los Angeles, September 18.—(AP)—Captain J. M. Clarke and Lieutenant Roy Hall, southern California commercial aviators, today announced they would leave here within a few days for Central America, where they have contracted to establish an aerial mail, freight and passenger line between San Salvador, Salvador and the City of Guatemala, Guatemala.

CAVE MAN FOUND

Half Starved Negro Boy Lives in Cave Four Days.

Half-starved, poorly clothed, and frightened at his shadow, Atlanta's first and only real cave man was under the protection of the juvenile court authorities Monday following his capture Saturday afternoon by police officers.

The negro boy, who gave his name as Bill Williams, was found by Police Officers O. D. Hardy and George Lee in a large cave near the railroad viaduct over Stewart avenue, two blocks west of Dill avenue. He told police that he had been living in the cave for four days, and that his only food had been obtained from garbage cans in the neighborhood.

Expressing a willingness to work for his living, the 15-year-old negro was sent to the juvenile farm, where he might gain good substantial food and a place to sleep in exchange for his labor, police said.

Spare Time in Two Weeks Got Him a Premier Bicycle

WILLIAM T. THOMAS, JR., OF WEST POINT, IS WINNER

WILLIAM T. THOMAS, JR., OF WEST POINT, GA.

Here's another instance of the ease with which boys and girls are winning $50 Premier bicycles under the terms of The Constitution's free offer.

William T. Thomas, Jr., of West Point, Ga., won one of the snappy bicycles made by a nationally famous maker in two weeks, devoting only his spare time to the task required of him.

"It took me about two weeks altogether," he wrote The Constitution on delivery of his Premier, "using only my spare time, to get the necessary number of new six-months subscriptions to earn the bicycle. I think it is a very nice bicycle, and I am proud of it."

You, too, can win a Premier in order that you may ride to school or run errands or use in your play. They're wonderful bikes—you'll want one.

All you have to do to win one is to secure 15 new six-months subscriptions to The Daily and Sunday Constitution. Scores of others have succeeded without trouble. You can also get at the source of supplies leading to bootleg channels. At present about 95,000,000 gallons are used a year by industrial concerns and the commissioner said control of this alcohol would be attempted under a section of the Volstead act providing that while the output should be ample for commercial needs it should not jeopardize the interests of the government.

Action looking to curtailment of expenses in enforcement also was taken in the announced appointment today of John L. Keddy and Edward E. Berney, investigators of the federal bureau of efficiency as field supervisors of prohibition. They will assist dry administrators in an effort "to get real economy in the enforcement business," Doran said.

BEERY DESCRIBES SUIT OF DANCER AS "BLACKMAIL"

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

(By Lease, Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Hollywood, Cal., September 19.—Wallace Beery, screen actor, rushed home from a deer hunting trip in the Sierras today to fight the $1,000,000 suit filed against him by Juanita Montalva, dancer, who accuses Beery of criminally attacking her on two occasions. Beery issued a statement declaring he has asked District Attorney Keyes to investigate the girl's charges and her activities prior to bringing suit.

"It is outrageous blackmail," Beery said. At the Lasky studio it was asserted that the young Spanish brunette and persons purporting to represent her had tried to arrange a monetary settlement with Beery for two months prior to filing the suit.

Police records show the arrest of Juanita Montalva two years ago for annoying Richard Dix. After that episode the young woman was ordered into a girls' home.

Whitehall also will be widened 20 feet.

Chief of Construction William A. Hansell will push clearing of the right-of-way on both projects.

LARGEST TECH CLASS BEGINS REGISTRATION

Following the registration Tuesday morning, of what appears now to be the biggest freshman class ever to enroll at Georgia Tech, Dr. Floyd Field, dean of men, has arranged an entire week for the orientation of the hundreds of first-year men. Registration is from 8 to 12 o'clock in the college chapel.

"If I Were a Freshman," is to be a talk during the week by Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, while Dr. Vernon Skiles, dean of the school, will urge upon the new men the importance of class attendance and study. Professor Morton will discuss "Student Honor." Dr. John B. White, school physician, "Health and Hygiene," Dr. Floyd Fields, fraternities, and Dr. Frank B. Reade, "Freshman English."

H. H. Caldwell, registrar of Georgia Tech, is to have a period of the orientation week for impressing upon all new men the importance of a college record. The college Y. M. C. A. and the several Georgia Tech Sunday school classes are to be given a place on the schedule to invite all new men to visit them while in the city.

Importance of college mathematics and modern language is to be discussed by Dr. D. M. Smith, of the mathematics department, and Dr. J. B. Crenshaw, head of the modern language department.

The orientation schedule begins promptly Wednesday morning but classes are to begin Monday, September 20.

STREET WIDENING TO BE STARTED IN FEW WEEKS

Widening and paving of two important traffic arteries of the city will get under way within a few weeks, it was announced Monday, following approval of city council of measures designed to set the machinery in motion at the earliest possible moment.

A taxing zone will be established to widen Whitehall street from the intersection of Windsor to McDaniel street, and actual widening of Peters street from Park street to Walker street will be begun as soon as preliminary details are worked out by the construction department. The county will do the actual paving on both improvements.

The Peters street project will begin at the Park street end and will be worked toward Walker street. Plans are to widen the thoroughfare 20 feet.

RUM KILLING JURY IS CHOSEN

Jacksonville, Fla., September 19.—(AP)—A special federal grand jury was organized here today to hear evidence in the slaying of three government operatives during a rum battle 40 miles off Fort Lauderdale on August 8.

Horace Alderman, alleged rum runner and alien smuggler, and Robert E. Weech, his companion aboard the liquor boat which was captured by the coast guard cutter, are being held in the county jail here. Weech was expected to testify during the day and to substantiate charges of federal authorities that Alderman killed Robert K. Webster, secret service operative aboard the coast guard cutter. Sidney Sanderlin and Victor A. Lamb, coast guardsmen.

The men were killed in a fight taken aboard the coast guard boat after their vessel had been captured. Among the government witnesses here were Jodie L. Hollinsworth, 19, coast guardsman, who was wounded in the battle; J. A. Robinson, boat-swain's mate; Frank Tuten, chief boat-swain's mate; Frank Lehman, motor machinist's mate, first-class, and Hal Caudle, coxswain's mate.

The grand jury is not expected to report until tomorrow morning, it was announced today.

United States Attorney William M. Gohr, aided by two assistants, is submitting the case.

Revival Continued.

Continuation of revival services being held by the Rev. Oscar Hudson and wife, Mrs. Nettie Hudson, at the Nazarene church, corner of Moreland and Kirkwood avenues, has been announced for the remainder of the week, with daily services at 7:30 o'clock.

Meteorologist Sees Continued Cool Weather

Merchants of Atlanta endeavoring to outfit their customers with new felt hats, wool suits, heavy undergarments, and other fall clothing necessities will be granted the assistance of the weather man, who has forecast continued lower temperatures for several days.

Except for absence of the sun and prevailing dampness of the atmosphere, Monday's climatic conditions were normal for this season in Atlanta. C. F. von Herrmann, meteorologist of the governmental station, said in predicting a cooler morning but slightly warmer noon today in Atlanta and other sections of Georgia.

Atlantans who were scouted as boosters when they apologized for the torrid temperatures prevailing last week as being "unusual weather for this ideal city" can point with satisfaction to the meteorologist's statement that the comforting coolness of Monday and the ideal autumn weather scheduled for today are shown by the files at the weather bureau to be normal fall weather conditions for Atlanta.

The descent of the mercury column to a minimum of 66 degrees was recorded early Monday morning. Starting at that point the liquid was unable to stretch across the 74-degree line at any time during the day. A small quantity of rain fell Monday. It was not sufficient to bring the total rainfall for the month up to the first inch. The deficiency in rain this year is unusually high, Mr.

von Herrmann stated, the total figure being more than 14 inches off from normal precipitation to date. Under normal conditions about two inches of rain should have fallen so far this month, the weather official said. The deficiency, however, is small compared with that witnessed in 1923, when only .24 inch of rain was precipitated during the entire month of September.

The probable range of the thermometer today will be from 62 to 75 degrees in Atlanta, with no rain to mar the pleasant fall weather, Mr. von Herrmann asserted.

Ibanez Allows Exiled Chilean Reds to Return

Santiago, Chile, September 19.—(United Press).—President Ibanez, as an act of mercy on the occasion of Chilean independence day, is permitting a group of Chilean communists to return from their red paradise on the Island of Juan Fernandez to a capitalistic civilization they now like better.

The president signed an executive order pardoning 460 first-offense prisoners, among them some communists sent several months ago to Juan Fernandez—the island on which Alexander Selkirk, Scot seaman, was supposed to have been the original of Robinson Crusoe.

The communists were sent to the island, given all necessary equipment and food, and invited to form a communistic community for themselves and thereby attain happiness.

The experiment failed—for the communists. President Ibanez announced a few weeks ago, in an interview with the United Press, that the communists wanted to come home, and had intimated their desire to confine their communism to theory thereafter.

REED OUTLINES OWN FARM BILL

Hutchinson, Kan., September 19.—(AP)—Attacking the tariff, laws restricting personal liberty and the McNary-Haugen bill which he termed paternalistic and dangerous, James A. Reed, senior senator of Missouri, this afternoon addressed an assemblage at the Kansas state fair here.

In presenting a plan of his own whereby the American farmer could market his grain and cotton in Europe and bring back to the United States goods of equal value which would be admitted without paying any tariff duties, Senator Reed declared he would never vote for a law which proposed to give a Washington board authority to levy exactions upon the American farmer at its will.

The senator briefly sketched the McNary-Haugen measure which failed in congress last winter and pointed to the arbitrary power of the governing board to collect a fee for each bushel of grain or unit of product handled as the really dangerous part of the bill.

"It will be observed," he said, "that the plain purpose of this bill is to place in the hands of the majority of 15 men, who draw $10,000 a year and sit in Washington, the power to attempt to control prices by hoarding, by buying in the market, by selling, and by insuring against loss."

It is a striking example of the length to which we are going in establishing here a paternalistic government. It proceeds upon the theory that the farmer is no longer to be a free man, that he must be put under governmental patronage. For my part, I will never vote to authorize any government board to take against their will and protest anything the farmers have produced by the sweat of their toil."

"In the last analysis the cloak of paternalism conceals the sword of the despot."

REV. DAVIS TO SPEAK AT LIONS' LUNCHEON

Rev. W. E. Davis, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, will be principal speaker at the regular weekly luncheon of the Lions club today at 12:30 o'clock at the Wincoff hotel. In addition to Rev. Davis' talk, a musical program will be given by Mrs. Charles A. Sheldon.

CROWDS PUSH AND SHOVE TO GET IN PIEDMONT HATTERS

One of the surest signs that summer is over and that fall and cooler weather is just around the corner, is the usual first-of-the-season crowds that can now be seen trying to get in the Piedmont Hatters place at 424 Peachtree street, to get their hats cleaned and rebuffed. This popular cleaning establishment also specializes in pressing men's suits and cleaning ladies' hats.—(adv.)

... and enter the NEW Armstrong Designs

Autumn's here! Autumn—season of home entertaining. Autumn—time to re-dress our homes. Above all, sparkling and bright Armstrong patterns make it floor time!

A few of the more popular motifs are shown. There are literally scores more on display at local stores. They are new in color. New in cheerful pattern. Many are new ideas in floors as well—quite worth a visit simply to see.

Marbleized Tiles (No. 353)—smart, modern. Beautiful—they blend pleasantly with other tones in your room furnishings. Practical—they won't show dust or footprints.

Inset Jaspé (No. J-12)—an innovation by Armstrong. Jaspé linoleum with occasional colored figures. Designed for smart shop or spacious room.

Popular Dutch Tiles (No. 5450)—in spick-and-span blue and gray. Sprightly colorful. Durable. Easy to keep clean. Ideal for kitchens.

Embossed Handcraft Tile Inlaid (No. 6007)—a revelation in floor design. The mortar lines are actually pressed in, giving an effect of "texture."

"Perfect—for a ball" (No. 0117)—splendid for other rooms as well. Geometric patterns in Armstrong's Inlaid Linoleum.

"Handcraft" (No. 3005)—an exclusive Armstrong effect. The charm of a hand-set floor of vari-colored tiles in comfortable inlaid linoleum.

Tapestry effects (No. 5125)—so suitable for a pretty bedroom floor. Lacy patterns; dainty colors; pastel shades. Embossed or plain.

Arabesque (No. 9110)—Armstrong's colorful new floor. Openwork patterns with the linoleum base as part of the design.

Inexpensive printed linoleum is pretty—when it's Armstrong's. Pattern No. 7102.

"THE ATTRACTIVE HOME—How to Plan Its Decoration" is the title of Hazel Dell Brown's 32-page book written especially for home-planners. It contains color-plates of model interiors, a simple plan for doing your own decorating, illustrations of the newest Armstrong designs. Sent for ten cents in stamps.

Your Smile
can be enhanced by dazzling white teeth, and pretty gums, this new way
You can now remove the DINGY FILM that clouds your teeth and imperils healthy gums... accept this dental test.

STUDY attractive people, men or women. Note the tremendous past gleaming, clear teeth play. Off-color teeth are an injustice to one's smile. Don't permit them to mar yours.

And don't believe your teeth are naturally dull and colorless. You can disprove that. Can work a transformation in your mouth. Millions are doing it today.

Modern science has found a new way in tooth and gum care. A way different from any you have ever known. Just send the coupon for a 10-day test.

Remove that film—see what a great difference comes

Run your tongue across your teeth, and you will feel a film, a viscous coat that covers them.

That film is an enemy to your teeth—and your gums. You must remove it.

It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It absorbs discolorations and gives your teeth that cloudy, "off-color" look. Gums by the millions breed in it and lay their teeth open to decay. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea and gum disorders.

Tooth troubles and gum troubles now are largely traced to that film. Old-time methods fail in successfully combating it. That's why, regardless of the care you take now, your teeth remain dull and unattractive.

New methods remove it And Firm the Gums

Now, in a new-type dentifrice called Pepsodent, dental science has provided effective combatants. Their action is to curdle the film and remove it, then to firm the gums.

Now what you see when that film is removed—the whiteness of your teeth—will amaze you.

Ordinary methods fail in these results. Thus the world has turned, largely on dental advice, to this new method. Mail the coupon. A 10-day tube will be sent you free.

big agriculture building. All the data taken during the week will be put into use during the present school term in South Carolina, according to those in charge of the work.

Not only will the students observe the agriculture exhibits but they will be given a definite program during the week and will study other exhibits in the liberal arts and the manufacturers' building.

They will also have an opportunity of seeing one of the most elaborate and complete amusement and sporting programs ever offered here, for officials of the fair have left no stone unturned in providing that feature for the hundreds of thousands of persons that are expected to visit the 1927 South-eastern fair.

Included in the great amusement program will be the usual midway attractions featuring the Zeppelin and Polaris carnival, the free acts in front of the grandstand every afternoon and night, followed by a mammoth fireworks display every night.

Dutton Circus.

Jimmy Dutton's famous all-star circus, Canada, will be the afternoon attraction, while Ethel Robinson's de luxe revue will be given each night.

As a sporting feature, two big days of automobile racing and five days of grand circuit racing will be held. The auto races will take place on the opening and closing days and the large cash prizes that will be awarded the winners has lured some of the best known dirt track drivers in the country here.

Some of the fastest automobiles on the dirt track in the country have already been entered in the racing events.

Grand circuit racers from all parts of the country have already made plans to bring their best horses to race at Lakewood during the fair and already more than 200 horses have been entered in the five days' event.

Many others are expected and more than $1,500,000 worth of the finest horse flesh in America will be seen at Lakewood during the week of October 1-5.

thrust against sin Monday night as a feature of the second day of a two weeks' revival meeting which Dr. William Russell Owen is conducting at the Gordon Street Baptist church.

A large audience attended the meeting and presaged success for the most recent campaign "against sin."

Elmer Slider, superintendent of the Tabernacle Bible school and widely-known soloist, is in charge of the music programs. The Rev. Dr. W. H. Faur is pastor of the church and is assisting in the services.

"The message of Christ is the challenge of Christ to get right with God," Dr. Owen declared. "A man may be right with his wife and wrong with God; he may be right with his fellowman and still be wrong with God; but no man can be right with God and wrong with his wife or fellowman. Religion works from heaven and earth at the same time."

"A man may run with a blonde on the side, and still retain his wife's innocent affection, but not so with God. He knows whether the life is single or double."

"Enthusiasm in religion is scoffed at and called 'emotional,' but fellow-sinners until he is red in the face when a batsman hits a home run if the baser are full. We elect him cheer leader for the old home town ball team."

"I reserve the right to get up as much enthusiasm about my discipleship to a legal and worthy master like Jesus Christ, as I give to the man who yells himself hoarse when his favorite runs the field for a touchdown from the kick-off of the Georgia-Tech football game."

Dr. Owen will speak tonight on "The Holy Spirit Teaches Us How to Pray," Wednesday, "The Holy Spirit Pleads for a man," Thursday, "The Holy Spirit Revealing the Deep Things of God," Friday, "The Holy Spirit Witnessing for Christ."

Two services are being held daily, one at 10 o'clock in the morning and the other at 7:30 o'clock at night. Dr. Owen announced only his night sermons in advance.

big agriculture building. All the data taken during the week will be put into use during the present school term in South Carolina, according to those in charge of the work.

Not only will the students observe the agriculture exhibits but they will be given a definite program during the week and will study other exhibits in the liberal arts and the manufacturers' building.

They will also have an opportunity of seeing one of the most elaborate and complete amusement and sporting programs ever offered here, for officials of the fair have left no stone unturned in providing that feature for the hundreds of thousands of persons that are expected to visit the 1927 South-eastern fair.

Included in the great amusement program will be the usual midway attractions featuring the Zeppelin and Polaris carnival, the free acts in front of the grandstand every afternoon and night, followed by a mammoth fireworks display every night.

Dutton Circus.

Jimmy Dutton's famous all-star circus, Canada, will be the afternoon attraction, while Ethel Robinson's de luxe revue will be given each night.

As a sporting feature, two big days of automobile racing and five days of grand circuit racing will be held. The auto races will take place on the opening and closing days and the large cash prizes that will be awarded the winners has lured some of the best known dirt track drivers in the country here.

Some of the fastest automobiles on the dirt track in the country have already been entered in the racing events.

Grand circuit racers from all parts of the country have already made plans to bring their best horses to race at Lakewood during the fair and already more than 200 horses have been entered in the five days' event.

Many others are expected and more than $1,500,000 worth of the finest horse flesh in America will be seen at Lakewood during the week of October 1-5.

THE LEGIONNAIRES.

As evidenced by the cordial and splendid address of welcome by the premier, the French government is giving a royal reception to the American legionnaires who are flocking to Paris and who will later visit the scenes of their battles to the north.

This spirit might have been anticipated, for France has never shown any ill feeling to this country, although differences have from time to time existed as to international policies. France, more than any of the allied nations, has always shown a feeling of the deepest appreciation for America's part in the defeat of the central powers.

It is a matter of history that when the American boys began to pour into France in the fall of 1917 the back of the allies was pinned close to the wall. The morale was low, and although the French soldiers particularly were holding the Marne it was known that Germany was rapidly recruiting, even closing her great universities in order to draft the students into combat service. Then it was that the United States marines made their first onslaught on the enemy at Chateau Thierry. The morale of the entire allied armies, from the moment of that great victory, was strengthened.

From that day forward the day of a complete victory was seen approaching. The decisive battle was that of the Argonne, lasting for several weeks and in which all of the combat forces of America was thrown. It was terrific, and the thousands of little white crosses in the American cemeteries in the old American sector tell only a part of the story.

While the reunion of the legionnaires in France is full of festivities it also has its sad features. The French veterans know that. It is a sad occasion for them, too, for their losses during the four-year struggle reached into the millions.

PASSES UP AN OPPORTUNITY.
The new chief of the Anti-Saloon league—Francis Scott McBride—starts out with a flat declaration that his organization is going deeper in politics than ever, both in congress and in the state and national campaigns.

In other words—though a former preacher—he expects to outdo Wheeler Wheeler as a political dictator, and to take his place in the galleries, as his former chief did, with thumbs up or down as signals to his subservient cohorts on the floor.

If this policy, as outlined in his first formal interview, is carried out it will mean that the league will pass up its greatest opportunity for service, and for the cause of temperance.

It will mean a broadening and strengthening of fanaticism in this country, an even greater degree of resentment at summary laws and at congressional interference by a powerful paid lobby, a more unsatisfactory condition of enforcement, a higher tide of home-brew, and a more dangerous system of invisible government.

The league, which was entirely controlled by the late chief, had an opportunity to assume a new and better policy, and one that would have resulted in promoting a national sobriety.

If it had undertaken to reconsecrate the homes of America to the ideals of former years, to have curbed social licenses, to have invoked temperance by moral suasion, to have reached the hearts of the young people, who are today the heaviest drinkers, to have gone forth to organize the people of this country for a higher regard for law and order, and for a higher regard for personal habits, what a force for good it could have been!

Maybe it is not too late. The tens of thousands of Americans who contribute to the Anti-Saloon league, most of them people of moderate means, own the institution. Their voice should be heard in its control and management. A great protest at the continuation of the league as a political lobby, dealing entirely with elections and with political interferences in states, ought to sweep the country. If the owners of the league should demand that it become a moral and a temperance force rather than a political force, the announced policy of its new head will be switched to better things.

AN APPRECIATION.

On this page is a communication from John H. Hudson, assistant solicitor general of the Atlanta circuit, expressing appreciation of the Constitution's editorials on the recent serious mistake of the bureau of farm economics in predicting a future price trend of cotton.

It is gratifying to have such expressions of approval of the attitude of The Constitution in the discussion of matters of political or economic interest.

It has always been the policy of this newspaper to express its convictions without fear or favor. It always will be. It has no personal or selfish axes to grind. It wears no yoke. It is not hog-tied to any interest or group. Public welfare and those services and conditions that attain and maintain such welfare is the sole purpose of The Constitution in its discussion, in its own way, of all public matters.

Opinions fairly but firmly expressed should be the editorial duty and function of every newspaper. As to the recent very serious error of the crop reporting department of the federal department of agriculture, the very prompt action of Secretary Jardine in condemning it, while assuming responsibility for it, and in promising that there should be no repetition of such price predictions, is to be commended.

It is gratifying to know, too, that Senator Harris and other southern senators will ask congress to more firmly and definitely describe and prescribe the functions of the bureau dealing with crop conditions and estimates.

GEORGE R. ALLISON.

The sudden death at a hotel in Valdosta of George R. Allison, of Atlanta, shocks not only the theatrical circles of this city but thousands of personal friends who knew him in the civic and trade activities to which he devoted much of his time. As general manager of the Atlanta branch of the Fox Film company for eight years he had become the dean of what is known as "film row." He was president of the Atlanta film board. He always stood for clean pictures, and would not accept any other type. He was devoted to Atlanta and was one of its greatest boosters. All worthwhile uplift and welfare enterprises had his earnest support.

His death removes from this city one of its best and most useful citizens.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM REEDY.

THE OLD HONK BUNKER THE EXPERTS TELL.

Nearly everybody with a modicum of sense agrees that it is poor policy for a layman to delve into medical books, or pathological literature of any kind. A few people find this department not to their liking, because of the lack of sympathy for them to try on, but on the other hand a great many readers with nothing but the matter have the habit of taking a peep at this column to learn how to stay that way.

Often it is not only desirable but advisable for an ailing person to read medical writings about his condition and its treatment. Nowadays this is practically indispensable for the successful treatment of diabetes and is an aid to recovery that is more and more employed in the treatment of tuberculosis. When the patient is to use such study, it is his physician should tell him precisely what literature to study and the wise patient should read nothing else.

It is scarcely necessary to point out the danger that lies in such reading if the one whose precious health or life is at stake undertakes to select a reliable disinterested adviser.

A few weeks ago, discussing in the column the subject of diabetes, I unfortunately quoted the experience of a correspondent who had suffered a livid swelling about the neck, and it might just as well have been any other wholesome food item that contained some protein. But it just happened to be tomatoes.

From the time when the hermit chateaux is pronounced to be the cause of cancer, this healthful, succulent and for some conditions specific preventive and curative vegetable has been a favorite target of the vagaries of "food experts" who hold forth mainly in magazines catering to the morose population.

It is strange how credulous even educated people are about such things, and yet not so strange when we remember that the thoroughly human physiology and hygiene are neglected and ignored in the "education" of our best people.

The correspondent quotes this from a book: "Tomatoes—Rational Health club, founded . . . ovals, act as a diuretic, pointing to the blood, nerves, bones and muscles, and one of the direct causes of rheumatism." "Physical Culture Food Directory, by . . . 20 years a food expert. Tomatoes—He says tomatoes have a high vitality."

Now, adds the correspondent, with the medicals and the food experts at variance with each other and both at variance with common sense, where does the poor layman come in?

The only chemist the correspondent cites is one Dr. C. Namur, who says who said tomatoes have some food value and contain oxygen and iodine. These facts may be at variance with the "food experts," but not with any medical teaching. So the class narrows down to our dog and another dog, "food expert" happen anyway? Why, it's as simple as customers. He inserts a $20 ad of his "Farewell to Fatigue," and if enough such bite, he is from the issue a "food expert." As the orders increase he branches out into more pretentious magazines and eventually even the highbrow periodicals. He gets to sell him space and boost him in their alleged reading columns.

The presentation of Governor Smith's name by the New York delegation, however, should not arouse any discord.

If I were a convention delegate I would not vote for his nomination. If he should be nominated, however, I would vote for his election.

It is all nonsense to say he could not carry the south if nominated. There might be some reductions in the normal majorities in the south—as we have more than our share of fanaticism and intolerance and bigotry.

The principles of democracy are too sacred, too inherent, to desert them because of the candidacy of a man who has always stood four-square to every tenet of democratic faith.

Again, if Governor Smith should be nominated, it would be a positive statement that the first thing he would do would be to make a solemn pledge that he would, as president, do everything in his personal and official capacity to enforce rigidly the 18th amendment.

Then maybe the old bone-dry states of the south would return to prohibition. They have gone far astray as it is.

HONOR FORGET-ME-NOT DAY

BY SAM W. SMALL

While a war is going on and the recruiting bugles are blowing, and our boys are marching away, and the bulletins of our battles are coming back to us day by day, our hearts are naked and sensitive to the appeals of our eyes to the perils and dangers of our boys.

The letter related a note was coming due and it stated it would take $1,000 to meet it. John learned Hinch had a note for $900 falling due yesterday for the 24 hours preceding his questioning tonight. Two state troopers had kept the chicken ranch under constant surveillance.

Early tonight they took him to the barracks in an upstairs room where Mrs. Lillendahl was then undergoing the closest questioning to which she has been submitted since the murder.

Prosecutor S. Cameron Hinkel, Captain William Carter, of the state police, Sergeant William Albrecht, Chief County Detective Frank J. Hay, and stenographers.

The widow was not confronted by Beardsley, the close of two hours' further examination she was given freedom on bail and the grilling of Beardsley began.

The body of the murder victim was brought today to a local undertaking parlor from Atlanta City hospital where a second autopsy was performed yesterday.

Colonel Clarence H. Hodson, head of Clarence Hodson &amp; Co., investment brokers of New York City, millionaire cousin of Mrs. Lillendahl, declared a burial date would not be set until he is assured the authorities have completed their autopsy.

We do not want a repetition of what happened in the Hall-Mills case when the bodies were disinterred for new autopsies.

When the body is finally interred it will be in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn, where lie the bodies of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, slain, and his chorister-sweetheart, Mrs. Eleanor Mills.

Just in Passing

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.

There is more politics than logic in the request made by some of the southern senators that Governor Al Smith of New York announce his intention to enter the 1928 national convention as a candidate for the presidential nomination.

This request, of course, is based upon a similar announcement made by Mr. McAdoo—

But the situation as to the two men are analogous in the slightest degree.

If Governor Smith's name is placed before the next convention it will be by the delegation of his home state, and that delegation will be enthusiastically behind him.

Mr. McAdoo could not possibly have gotten the support of California again, and he knew it.

It has been no secret since the last senatorial primaries in his state that California's democracy would not again present his name or vote for him for the presidential nomination.

He personally invited the test of his own candidate for the senate down the throats of the democrats two years ago.

The anti-McAdoo faction in the party whipped him to a frazzle.

Those attending the convention of 1924 will recall that Smith came to the convention with a strong conviction that shook the rattle of the old Madison Square Garden, pleaded with the members of every faction to go home and vote for the reestablishment of party harmony and the election of the democratic candidate.

He entered the campaign with the enthusiasm of the candidate himself. Everywhere he preached party unity.

He issued statements that were broadcast through the McAdoo states of the south and west urging, imploring party harmony.

Mr. McAdoo was urged to come to the convention platform on that memorable night—

He refused to do so.

Instead he sailed immediately for Europe and stayed out of his own country during most of the campaign.

The situations that revolve around the two men, therefore, are entirely different.

It is obvious that Mr. McAdoo would have written a different kind of a letter to George Milton if he had had the slightest hope that the California delegation would present his name.

There will be plenty of good men, any one of whom will be capable of making a strong race and a worthy president, before the next convention, as always.

There should be no friction, no repetition of the 1924 scenes, of course.

The presentation of Governor Smith's name by the New York delegation, however, should not arouse any discord.

If I were a convention delegate I would not vote for his nomination. If he should be nominated, however, I would vote for his election.

It is all nonsense to say he could not carry the south if nominated. There might be some reductions in the normal majorities in the south—as we have more than our share of fanaticism and intolerance and bigotry.

HONOR FORGET-ME-NOT DAY

BY SAM W. SMALL

Me-Not day is annually operated by the veterans' aid associations; and it is extremely desirable this year that the veterans' aid associations should be given the opportunity to present their appeal to the public.

Every patriotic and tender heart should answer the appeal with a liberal money response and with the silent prayer, "Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet, lest we forget, lest we forget."

Let our pledges be redeemed. But when the war is over, and the opportunities of peace and prosperity again absorb our minds and occupations, we are prone to pass the war-battered veterans by with a glance of compassion, and to hear the story of a disabled soldier's distress without a quiver of the lip or a pulse of pity. That sort of post-war callousness is very characteristic of the average American.

But it should not be so. We are a highly sentimental people; we are a prosperous people; and when our hearts are open to an appeal in humanity's cause, we are generally liberal people. Our Atlanta citizenship has been remarkable at all times for its generous response to every valid appeal to its sympathies and assistance.

Your Boy and Your Girl

BY ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.

I have an idea that "President Smith" could bring more good and comfort to the country than any other candidate. They couldn't be worse! At the same time I repeat that a southern man—a man from the great front yard of the democratic party—should be nominated.

And that opportunity may come in 1928.

It should come! The south's electoral vote is absolutely necessary to elect a democratic president.

The south gave birth to the party and to the ideals upon which it was founded.

It is the backbone of the party. And since the civil war we have been going into the backdoor of the national conventions, almost apologetically.

We have helped nominate candidates from rock-ribbed republican states. We have gone to the polls and helped to elect them, or at least we have helped to elect them.

We have been brow-beaten long enough for too long in fact.

There are as good men for president in the south as to be found in America.

We should go into the 1928 convention with heads erect, with spirit alert, and demand our rights.

We are the only democratic stronghold beyond the Ohio river. We have the courage to assert our just claim.

That reminds me to say that Georgia should be the next national convention either an uncommitted, unpledged delegation or one that would go to the convention supporting some such favorite son as our Junior Senator.

We sat through the Baltimore convention voting for Underwood even after the actual nomination of Wilson.

We sat through the San Francisco convention voting for Palmer even after Cox had been nominated.

We sat through the New York convention voting for McAdoo even after the stampele to Davis.

It is a process that is unfair to the democracy of the state, and unfair to the instructed delegates who go as pawns on a chess board.

As to the 1928 convention—It is a fact, conceded by all students of politics, that Governor Smith will have a majority of delegates.

He may have more than a majority.

But if any attempt in his interest should be made to abrogate the two-thirds rule in the south, he is to be determined what he is going to do in life.

If the two-thirds rule should be abrogated, the two-thirds rule is applicable to that convention, in the interest of any candidate, the nomination secured under it would not be worth having.

Any objection to the repeal of the two-thirds rule—provided the unit rule should be correspondingly repealed—

But that repeal, instituting thereby a majority rule, should become effective only in the next succeeding national convention.

Any other course would be political hijacking.

Speaking of Senator Walter George as a presidential possibility, the people of Georgia do not, themselves, know of his strength as a national leader. He would make an ideal nominee and would develop great popularity in the south where he is regarded as one of the most conspicuous democratic leaders of congress.

Georgia would be a strong delegation committed to his support, stranger things have happened than that he should be nominated. At any rate the state would have a strong delegation, and having asserted its manhood by backing a candidate as good as the best of those mentioned, and of having refused to remain longer a slave to the two-thirds rule, it would be in a position to assert its claim to the presidency in the fear that somebody's feelings would be hurt about a war fought over 65 years ago.

It is truculent cowardice that permits us to remain in this position, and even our friends in the north resent it.

Why not make a start right now to get from under such a cringing attitude, and what better beginning could be made than by offering Walter George to the democracy of the nation?

LOOKING AND LISTENING

BY SAM W. SMALL

The Vain Propaganda to Inflate a Draft Boom for Coolidge.

The North American Review, in its October number issued today, contains two articles relating to the inevitable Coolidge campaign for the presidency next year.

One is by John Spargo, the industrial-socialist and the other is by Al Patterson Merritt, woman political partisan. Both articles have been written since President Coolidge announced on August 2 that he does not "choose" to run for the presidency in 1928. The writers of them do not "choose" to feel bound by that statement.

In view of subsequent denigrations by those who are much nearer to the aura of the presidential mind, these articles read like belated bulletins from remote observation posts. As such any significance that might have inhered in them a month ago has now essentially evaporated.

President Coolidge has retired and hung a "Please Don't Disturb" placard on his door. Those who are circumspect to be called his intimates, personally or politically, know that he is definitely out of the field and will not be drafted or dragged back into it. If there is any man in America who knows his own mind, knows how to make it up, and how to express his mental decisions satisfactorily to himself, that man is Calvin Coolidge.

Popular as a Personage.

All that Spargo says of the personal popularity of the man, Calvin Coolidge, is unquestionable. His is a unique personality. A unique life and special environments have often developed novel and magnetic characters. They grew great in the public eye and achieved potential popularity. Among such men were Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Henry Clay, Abraham Lincoln, Grover Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson.

In that illustrious category of popular favorites Calvin Coolidge may justly be included; but with this peculiar reservation, that Coolidge is far more popular a cause of the negotiations in his character rather than for the activities and achievements of his official career.

His best fortune was to acquire his presidential throne as a public atmosphere was tainted, and the public temper irritated, and the integrity of almost the whole executive administration suspected, or openly challenged. The tragic call that he answered demanded of him the cool temperament of his native Green mountains, the stolid conservatism of his Pilgrim ancestors, the calm and silent flow of authority into the old and right channels of honesty, economy and competency.

President Coolidge has been neither spectacular nor brilliant in his actions. If he could be either he has tried to be. Rather he has been and is what he set out to be—a sane, conservative, unselfish president of the republic, safeguarding the people's

The Elephant Has His Job.

With the party chariot deeply mired down in unforgotten scandals, with Fall, Doherty and Sinclair still at large, with alien property owners still stinging the public nostrils, patronage sales unpunished, and other malfeasances exposed and unrecaptured, with a few House Republicans still for 1928 fully out for him—and it will give him some joyous job!

Canny Calvin is Puritan-wise not to choose to ride him through the storm.

At the same time the democrats need to be wise in their plan of campaign. They cannot but admit that in Hoover, and Hughes, and Dawes, and Coolidge, and Clegg, and happily find a strongly popular substitute for Coolidge. Over and above any personality in the republican party there are certain doctrines and policies belonging in its national agenda that are signally popular with a majority of the people. Business conditions, a stable currency, protection to industries, constant labor employment and satisfactory wages, economy in government expenses and competition of the republicans can even better things in the interests of individual freedom and state's rights—in which case they should beat the G. O. P. to the winning post.

DINNER TO HONOR ATLANTA FIER

Mexico City, September 19.—(United News.)—The mayor of Acapulco, a town of 14,000 in the state of Guanajuato, telegraphed tonight that half the town had been destroyed by fire.

He asked immediate assistance. Communication with Acapulco was restored only today. No loss of life is reported.

State and federal assistance is being organized.

BOND ISSUE SOUGHT FOR CITY AUDITORIUM

Proposal to float a $1,000,000 bond issue to construct a new municipal auditorium was offered Monday in the city council by Alderman Robert F. Pennington, of the first ward, and chairman of the auditorium committee of council.

The paper was referred to the finance committee at the request of the author, who will ask that body to set the date for the election. In offering his measure Mr. Pennington declared that the present structure of the city hall, antiquated and unfit for the use to which it is devoted.

It has long since served its time, and Atlanta deserves a modern, fire-proof structure in the interest of convenience and safety," Mr. Pennington said.

HAPEVILLE GETS ATLANTA'S THANKS ON CANDLER FIELD

Atlanta formally thanked the city council Monday for concurring in the charter amendment for Atlanta giving the Gate City supervision and control of the Candler aviation field.

The resolution of thanks was offered by Alderman William B. Hartfield, of the second ward, and was passed by a unanimous vote.

Hapeville secured an amendment to its city charter, which incorporated the field into its limits, but waived provisions of the measure in the interest of development of the field.

MURDER CHARGED TO AUTO DRIVER IN FATAL CRASH

Whitesburg, Ky., September 19.—(AP)—A warrant charging murder of one Whitaker, jailer of Letcher county, who was killed in an automobile accident Sunday, was issued today against Cicero Seco. Whitaker once was known throughout Kentucky as the "jailer jailer," because he had been confined in his own jail for an alleged offense.

Seco was said to have been the driver of an automobile which ran into Whitaker's car on the Sand Lick road near here, forcing the machine over an embankment. Whitaker's neck was broken in the fall, Seco was seriously hurt and Mrs. Sophie Sexton, driver of the machine, was injured.

Help Guaranteed for Stomach and Gas Pains

If you could come to our office and read some of the 100,000 letters written by men and women who have been restored to health by Tanlac, you would be amazed. You would find letters from thousands who had suffered for years, had tried scores of medicines in vain, and had given up hope when some friend persuaded them to try Tanlac.

Here, for example, is the experience of Mrs. Hattie Moore, of 67 N. Haywood St., Asheville, N. C. “My stomach and nerves went back on me after I had suffered years with rheumatism. Five dollars worth of Tanlac did me more good than hundreds spent before. Now I eat, sleep and feel fine—freed of all former sufferings.”

Tanlac is a wonderful relief for gas, pains in the stomach and bowels, constipation and nausea. It helps you digest your food, gain strength and weight. It contains no mineral drugs; it is made of roots, bark and herbs—nature's own medicines for the sick. The cost is less than 2 cents a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist and begin to take it right now. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

INSURGENT LEADS OUTLINED BY NYE

Washington, September 19.—(P)—Republican insurgents should seize opportunity furnished by their control of the balance of power in the next senate to put forward a constructive program, Senator Nye of North Dakota, one of the insurgents, declared today in a formal statement.

Emphasizing that he expressed only his own “personal position and hopes,” the young insurgent senator advocated an abandonment of a former practice of the insurgents in absenting themselves from republican conferences. He declared that any program inaugurated by the progressive group should be carried to the conference and its adoption there urged.

Favorable Opportunity.

Senator Nye said the opportunity was “especially favorable” for this group to establish once and for all its position “as a constructive influence” and dispel the idea often put forward that it entertains “radical ideas” and is a force of dissatisfaction.

Outlining what he regards as a constructive program of legislation, the North Dakota senator declared first for a farm relief bill along the lines of the McNary-Haugen measure and secondly for the solution of the Mississippi river flood problem. Any treasury surplus remaining after these major problems had been taken care of would be devoted to retirement of the public debt, with no income tax reduction, but rather with increase in the upper surtax brackets.

Nye's Proposals.

Other proposals in the Nye program are:

Pass the Norris constitutional amendment abolishing the short sessions of congress.

Government operation of Muscle Shoals.

Repeal the McAdams branch bank bill and decline to recharter the federal reserve bank system until the dangerous powers exercised by the federal reserve board are cured by legislation.

Encourage more definite effort in behalf of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway project.

Legislate against huge and excessive campaign expenditures in primary and general elections.

Nation Flood Action Favored By President

Washington, September 19.—(P)—President Coolidge was declared to be favorable towards the proposal to make the Mississippi river flood control problem a national responsibility by members of the tri-state flood control executive committee which called today at the white house.

In an hour's conference at the white house the committee described the devastation caused by flood and urged that a national government adopt a comprehensive program to prevent another disaster.

Governor J. E. Martineau, Arkansas, chairman of the committee, estimated that a total appropriation of $500,000,000 would be required to check the Mississippi flood.

A specific program was not outlined to Mr. Coolidge by the committee pending its conference later in the day with Secretary Davis of the war department. The delegation stressed the necessity of the national government assuming the responsibility for control of the river.

Governor Martineau said the president seems “very sympathetic” and he believed the government was prepared to go ahead on a comprehensive control program.

The delegation included also John R. Fordyce and H. C. Conch, of Arkansas; J. P. Butler and M. Garsaud, of New Orleans, and L. O. Cross and Oscar Johnson, of Mississippi.

FAWN GRAY WEBS SATURDAY, WEEKS LIBERTY MONDAY

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Baltimore, Md., September 19.—Fawn Gray, former flame of Harry K. Thaw and “Big Ed” Gallagher, of Gallagher and Shean fame, has been imbibing again, it seems, with the usual result.

She got married again last Saturday and today she blamed it on liquor and began suit here for annulment.

Her latest spouse is Hamilton J. E. Smith, 39, of New York city—and Hollywood. He's said to be a motion picture producer.

She had her suit for annulment signed by the more prosaic nomenclature of Gladys M. Brown, her real name, and gives her address as Brooklyn.

She admits getting intoxicated after having met Smith for the first time late Saturday afternoon in the office of her Baltimore lawyer, J. Charles Eagan.

Smith, she avers, produced three quarts of whisky which he practically forced her to help him drink. When she became sober she found she was married again.

This is the second time the gay little dancer has been married under circumstances. Her first husband, whom she married two years ago after an all night drinking bout in a Philadelphia room, was Theodore McFarland, a young newspaper man whom she divorced 60 days later in Baltimore.

GOVERNMENT USES OUTPUT OF PEN DUCK MILL HERE

Washington, September 19.—(P)—The department of justice today declared in a statement to the association of cotton textile manufacturers that the cotton duck mill in the Atlanta federal penitentiary does not sell its products on the commercial market and supplies approximately one-third of the cotton materials required by government institutions.

The request of the cotton textile association said that this industry was “disregarding the subject of competition in industry and there is a good deal of misinformation regarding it.”

The department's statement added that in the other prison industries, including the manufacture of shoes at the Leavenworth penitentiary, only a small portion of the articles required by the government are produced in most cases. It stressed the value of the industries in affording the prisoners an opportunity to earn money and being taught a trade during their sentences.

Husband Given Public Flogging By Young Wife

Tulsa, Okla., September 19.—(United News).—Mrs. Quentin Duggins, 19, and her mother gave the young wife's husband an old-fashioned public flogging today because he went “joriding” with a high school.

A large crowd was present when Mrs. Duggins broke three buggy whips over her husband's back, wounding him with all the force at her command.

While Mrs. Duggins was a great help, for each time her daughter broke a whip she handed her a new one.

The flogging took place on a downtown street. The young wife, explained to the crowd that Duggins had been out with a girl in his automobile. Early this morning he drove past the Duggins home twice, she claimed, turning out the lights on the car each time so that she could not see her husband or his company.

But she saw Mrs. Duggins said she followed the car and caught up with it down town. There she slapped the girl several times and sent her home. Later she returned with her mother and the buggy whips.

While Mrs. Duggins was wielding the whips, her husband begged onlookers to “take her off me.”

His plea was met with jeers and catcalls.

One bystander shouted “Stay right in there, sister.”

After the beating mother, daughter and husband went home.

IRISH GOVERNMENT HOLDS MAJORITY

Dublin, Irish Free State, September 19.—(P)—With only 13 seats in the Dail Eireann not yet filled, the government has a lead of three seats over the combined opposition. The figures are: Government, 71; opposition, 68.

Returns are awaited from Donegal and Cork, and from these the government hopes to increase its lead, and the final result is believed the government will be safe. Whether with such a narrow majority President Cosgrave will consent to carry on is not known, but he will be subjected to strong pressure from business and commercial interest to retain the helm.

The government's first real victory over the De Valeraites was in the national university, of which Eamon De Valera is permanent chancellor. De Valera had put forward Conn McGuire, barrister and once director of elections for the republican party, in place of Professor Glavin, republican, retired, but the government candidate, Professor Tierney, one of its most vigorous supporters, succeeded in beating him by a vote of second preference from the government's first candidate, P. Mac Gilligan, minister of industry and commerce.

In the first count in Donegal the poll was headed by Major J. Spruille Miles, independent, who won the military cross in the great war.

Judge Seeks Crime Cure By Physician

Cure of crime by medical attention was invoked Monday by Judge John P. Humphries in passing sentence on Mrs. Pauline Denton, 30, who entered pleas of guilty to four charges.

Judge Humphries placed Mrs. Denton on probation for four years, subject to her agreement to submit to treatment which physicians believe will cure nervous troubles that are alleged to have caused her to go crosswise of the law. Mrs. Denton agreed to the condition, and was carried to a local sanitarium where the operation will be performed within the next few days.

Mrs. Denton had been charged with four serious crimes, but in considering the case, Judge Humphries handled the charges as for misdemeanors and sentenced her to 12 months on each count, after which he probated the sentences subject to the rather unusual condition.

The woman was probated in the custody of her husband with the understanding that after treatment she will live with her family in a quiet suburb, but never come to Atlanta during the four-year period unless accompanied by her spouse.

The charges against Mrs. Denton involved alleged impersonation of her sisters to secure goods from local department stores, and alleged theft of an automobile.

AVIATRIX PASSES ALL AIR TESTS, GRANTED LICENSE

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., September 19.—(P)—Ruth Elder, of Lakeland, Fla., aviatrix, who wants to be the first woman to fly across the Atlantic, made three solo flights today and passed her examinations for a pilot's license.

She was given the pilot's examinations by Inspector Frank Gerdone, of the department of commerce, who announced that she had passed the written questionnaire, as well as the flying test. In the flying test she made three landings and three figure eights in the air. Gerdone was a passenger.

George Haldeman, her co-pilot and navigator on the proposed non-stop flight to Paris, announced that Miss Elder's monoplane, “The American Girl,” would not take off on the ocean crossing until the compasses and other instruments have been checked. This checking was begun today. Haldeman said it might not be completed until tomorrow afternoon.

After that he said he and Miss Elder will be ready for the hazardous trans-oceanic flight, which will be undertaken as soon as weather conditions permit.

MOTHER DENIES RUTH “HARD TO CONTROL”

Anniston, Ala., September 19.—(P)—Denying a published statement in which she was quoted as saying that she “could never do anything with Ruth as a child,” Mrs. J. O. Elder, of this city, mother of Ruth Elder, who plans soon to make a flight from New York to Paris, today declared that she was always an obedient child and never hard to control.

The mother was apparently much worried over the statement attributed to her and emphatically denied having said anything to that effect.

Mrs. Elder said that she had done all in her power to dissuade Ruth from attempting the flight, but declared that she had not made the assertion, as reported in a newspaper, that “she always has been headstrong and once her mind is made up there is no changing it.”

Everhart Not Ready To Make Statement In Hayes Poison Case

Dr. Edgar Everhart, state chemist, who is examining the viscera of the son and daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hayes, of Blakely, Ga., who are held in that city in connection with the poisoning of the young people, will not make a statement concerning his findings for several days, it was learned at the capital Monday.

It will require several days for the chemist to complete his examination which was authorized by the officials of Early county. He will make a report of his findings to these officials and they will make it public.

The son of Hayes died several weeks ago, and recently the daughter-in-law died. An investigation led to the arrest of the father and mother.

NEGRO ON TRIAL IN ANDREWS CASE

Macon, Ga., September 19.—(P)—Wilder Galloway, negro, charged with murder in connection with the death of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Andrews, of Alamo, killed in Dodge county on July 24, was placed on trial in the Bibb superior court here today for the murder of Mr. Andrews. The case was transferred here by change of venue from Dodge.

The attorneys for the negro entered a plea of not guilty to the charges lodged against him. By 1 o'clock, when the court recessed for dinner, a number of witnesses for the state had testified that Mrs. Andrews, before her death a month after her husband was killed, identified the negro as the one who did the shooting.

ODD FELLOWS SHOWN LOSING MEMBERSHIP

Hot Springs, Ark., September 19.—(P)—The 103d annual session of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows opened here today and at the first business session Grand Sire Ernest W. Bradford, of Washington, D. C., submitted a report that called the attention to the loss of 39,064 members the past year. In his report he advocated abolishing the stipulated benefit plan and criticized what he said was the policy of some lodges to “railroad” dependent members into the G. O. homes of the organization.

Bradford urged that the term of office in the various branches of the order be lengthened, those in subordinate lodges to be made one year, the grand lodge two years and the sovereign grand lodge three or four years, which change, he said, would result “in a higher standard of work and service.” An increase in the minimum fee of admission to the various branches of the order also was favored in his report, as was the adoption of “separates” as the “international language” at our conference on the continent of Europe.

The Rebekah and Patriarch militant branches were complimentary, but their work, but regarding the “drift” and loss of membership the presiding official said it appeared that members were not using the best efforts in a fraternal sense.

LETTING OF CONTRACTS FACES SCHOOL BOARD

Consideration of measures intended to speed up letting of contracts for projects contemplated from funds provided by the $8,000,000 bond issue will be the chief concern this afternoon of an adjourned meeting of the Atlanta board of education. Other routine matters also will be discussed. The session will begin at 3 o'clock.

If Alertox Fails In Constipation Call A Doctor

This new preparation acts with time-clock precision in 60 to 90 minutes; does one thorough elimination; and no more; does not interfere with duties, habits or diet, and guarantees to remove, in one action, more poison from the system than any other known formula, leaving you buoyant, vivacious and alert, mentally and physically.

These are but a few of the many wonderful advantages of this latest discovery known as “Alertox,” which flushes the alimentary tract and re-establishes natural healthy liver and bowel action, and is much quicker, more palatable and far more effective than calomel, oils or other non-therapeutic cathartics. It is good for the liver and works you to death.

Alertox also alkalizes the system and thoroughly cleanses it of the poisons that cause auto-intoxication. Get a bottle from your druggist, and if you are not satisfied after taking one dose, get your money back. If your druggist cannot supply Alertox, send direct upon receipt of price, 60c. ## CARROLLTON MAN RELEASED ON BOND IN WAREHOUSE CASE

Newnan, Ga., September 19.—(P)—John F. Tarpley, of Carrollton, who was arrested and indicted recently on a charge of converting stored cotton to his own use in violation of the federal warehouse act, has been bound over to the federal grand jury in court by U. S. Commissioner James E. Brown. He was released under $2,000 bond.

The indictment against Tarpley charges that while he was manager of the warehouse of the Consolidated Warehouse company at Carrollton from 1925 to 1927, he converted illegally 17 bales of cotton for his own profit and in violation of the federal law passed in 1916.

"I'll Regain Heavyweight Title," Says Jack Dempsey

Ex-Champion Feels Great After Workout

Punches Still Carry Dynamite, Followers of Challenger Says.

BY CHARLES W. DUNKLEY.
(Associated Press Sports Writer, Who Has Covered Dempsey's Major Battles From 1919 to 1927.)

Lincoln Fields, Crete, Ill., September 19.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, on edge today for his battle of $25,000,000 with Gene Tunney in Soldier field next Thursday night, is as different from the Dempsey of a year ago, when he lost the world's heavyweight championship to Tunney in the rain at Philadelphia, as black is from white.

Observers' Verdict.
That, at least, is the verdict of unbiased observers who have watched the former world's heavyweight champion in all his battles from the time he battered Jess Willard into a helpless hulk in Toledo back in 1919, to his last engagement—his knockout victory over Jack Sharkey seven weeks ago.

If the present-day Dempsey isn't the same old Dempsey of the Firpo days, he is so close to the real article that his admirers hardly can distinguish the difference. Some say his victory over Sharkey caused the change; that it dispelled all doubt in his mind as to whether or not he could come back, and, having convinced himself that he still carries the old murderous punch and can stand up under punching, is certain he can destroy the popular belief that "he never come back." Dempsey is determined to come back, not half way, but all the way back.

This afternoon as he lounged about his training camp he found difficulty in keeping still. He gossiped with his camp attendants, read a bit from the newspaper, and then strolled around the place—a picture of a fighter brim full of nervous energy and in condition.

Will Regain Crown.

"I know I am in the very best of condition; I feel it," Dempsey said. "When I fought Tunney a year ago I did not have a fight for three years. It took that fight and the one I had with Sharkey to bring me back. I'll regain the title, I feel sure of it."

The sign that gives a line on Dempsey's mental and physical condition is the return of the playfulness. Time was when Dempsey would greet one of his admirers with a head-lock or a playful poke in the ribs. His head-lock disappeared a year ago when he was besieged with lawsuits and other worries but since his knockout over Sharkey the old desire to joke by wrapping his hairy arms around somebody's head and applying the pressure has returned.

Some of Dempsey's admirers, and this also goes for unbiased critics, say that he is 25 per cent better than when he fought Jack Sharkey, and at least 50 per cent better than when he fought Tunney a year ago.

Dynamite Is There.

They say—and his last workout was convincing—that he is the same vicious slugger that he always was. He is a punishing body puncher and his drive for the jaw seems to carry the old load of dynamite that flattened Willard, Firpo, Carpenter

Confident

JACK DEMPSEY

Here he is, says, Jack Dempsey, the old tiger of the ring, ready to answer the long Thursday night in search of his lost heavyweight championship he lost one year ago to Gene Tunney. From all reports Dempsey is in the best of shape for the brawl and will be hard to lick. Jack is confident of regaining his crown.

T. H. S. ELEVEN SENT THROUGH HARD TRYOUT

Coach Tolbert sent his Smithie gridders through a long, tough scrimmage Monday afternoon as they entered the final week of pre-season practice. With a game scheduled with McCallie next Saturday afternoon at Spiller's at 3 o'clock, the entire week will be full of hard work for the Tech high team.

It will be the first football game of the season for Atlanta, and with no college game slated, should draw a large attendance from those fans who just have to see a football game on the last Saturday in September.

The Smithies are blessed with a wealth of material this year and should have the best team since 1924 when the southern prep grid championship came to rest on the Jackson street institution.

Only three letter men were lost by graduation last June, and there are plenty of reserves to fill up the holes left by the loss of Rasmussen at tackle, Davis at end, and Waugh in the backfield.

Brennan and Miske. He has not the burden of the championship responsibility which he carried into the ring against Tunney the first time, a load which his friends say helped to increase his cares at Philadelphia.

There was no boxing for Dempsey today. He finished with all work with the gloves yesterday. He went on the road for five miles accompanied by Joe Ray, one-time champion.

After a rubdown Dempsey shook hands with 250 schoolboys from Harvey, a nearby suburb, who visited the camp.

Jackets Squad Sent Through Hard Workout

Men Look Better in Second Scrimmage of the Season.

KEEP OUT

All Tech lettermen and old grads who have succeeded in bulging their way past the gatekeepers at Grant field for the past two weeks, have had their day, it would seem. Monday Coach Alexander issued orders for all freshmen to be kept out of the game. The only freshmen bearing cards signed by Alex himself would be admitted during the practice period. If the possessor of a card brings a friend along, that friend must also have a card or he doesn't get in. Any desire of obtaining a card may be expressed by seeing Coach Alex at Grant field before or after practice.

BY BEN COTHMAN.

Scrimmage at Tech and cool weather have arrived simultaneously. The Jackets, Monday afternoon, rather brisk and Coach Alex sent his Jackets through a scrimmage that was also rather brisk.

The squad showed some improvement over Saturday's rather terrible affair, and the varsity backs managed to keep the ball safely within their hands once they got hold of the oval. But it was seldom, so seldom, that the backs could get away for long gains. Bob Randolph hit the line several times like a four-ton truck side-swiping a fruit stand, and made considerable dents in Hank Bjorkman's Red Devil line. On a few occasions this same stumpy youngster slipped through holes at tackle for considerable gains.

Parham Gets Away.

Bob Parham got away a couple of times for 15 to 20 yards, but outside of that there wasn't much gaining done. Still it was one of the second scrimmage of the season and by the end of the week it seems that the squad is in for one every day—maybe the Jackets will do better.

Passes went in for a lion's share of the attention during Monday's scrimmage and interception on the part of the Red Devils seemed to be the only thing to do, for it was very few times that the varsity backs or ends could catch one. Bob Parham was chucking most of the long lumps and they were wobbly with a vague, general sense of direction while his short chunks were straight and some of them, completed.

One notable achievement of both teams was the hard tackling. The varsity linemen were hitting hard and low and their charging and blocking were good. Bullard, playing end on the Red Devils, managed to get through once and bust up a play, throwing Bob Horne for a good loss. Bullard later on was mixed up in a scrimmage at his end which received a cut over the eye which necessitated his leaving the game.

With the holding of Saturday's scrimmage, all easy work for the Jackets squad was over and it'll be grind, grind for the boys from now until the end of the season. The V. M. I. game being two weeks off is cause for plenty of hard work, even if the team didn't need it.

Horne Wearing Guard.

Bob Horne was flaunting a shinguard Monday afternoon. It seems that he received a bad cut on the leg from a client the early part of last week, and had the place licked Saturday afternoon which brought forth the shinguard.

The first varsity team to take the field against the scrubs had Crowley and Glenn Holland at end, Hood and Thrash, tackles; Drennon and Martin, guards; Ford, center; Smith, quarter; Horne and Parham, halves; Randolph, fullback.

Another varsity combination consisted of Hecke and Wadley, ends; Spear and Watkins, tackles; Westbrook and Lillard, guards; Rusk, center; Durant, quarter; Mizell and Fitzgerald, halves; Oltz, fullback.

It's All Right, But—

Hitting the line is all right as long as the line doesn't hit back.

More Effective.

Slugging is barred from football. Oh, well, stomping on the opponent's ear is much more effective, anyway.

Waycross, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—The commissioners of Charlton county have agreed to provide the dipping material for the cattle of that county free of charge provided the owners will pay for the vats and other expenses. It is believed that the county is free of fever ticks but the cattle owners think it is desirable to dip for the ticks of the common variety and for lice.

How to Stop Skin Itching In 2 Minutes

First. Don't scratch. Scratching simply irritates and spreads the infection, often inducing blood poisoning.

Second. If you suffer from skin eruptions of any kind, pimples, itch, tetter, ringworm, eczema, etc., a pleasant ointment, known as Tetterine, containing highly effective germ-destroying and skin-healing properties, never fails to bring quick and permanent relief.

Tetterine, through its clean, cooling, soothing, antiseptic effect, kills the germs that bore into the skin, causing irritation and itching. ## DEMPSEY BETTER THAN EVER

DECLARES JACK HAS REAL FIGHT UNDER HIS BELT BEFORE, SAYS JIM DE FOREST

BY JIMMY DE FOREST

(Famous Conditioner of Boxers and Former Trainer of Jack Dempsey)
Chicago, Ill., September 20.—I am writing this after seeing Jack Dempsey go through his final workout for the fight with Gene Tunney. He is in fine condition and ready to put up the best fight of his career since he beat Louis Firpo. He has come through with very little damage received in training. He sports a slightly cut mouth and a black eye now, but these things ought to be well healed up by the time that Dempsey enters the ring.

Dempsey is much better physically so far as condition is concerned than I have seen him in a couple of years. Early in his training here I said that Dempsey was better, and now that he has finished, I repeat that he is fine. In his last workouts Dempsey has been boxing three-minute rounds. The full three-minute, not two-minute or short rounds.

Shows Real Speed.
Jack has been going along rather easily for a minute and a half or two minutes and then cuts loose. That's what made him look so bit slow so frequently. It was not because Jack couldn't fight faster and better, but that he didn't want to. Also Dempsey has been hitting his sparring partner with a much better accuracy than he has been trying for accuracy more than anything else.

Dempsey has been putting a whole lot of emphasis on his boxing. He has gotten pretty fast, faster than he has been on his feet for several years. The ex-champion is a better boxer, a much better boxer than he used to be, and he is hitting harder than he did against Jack Sharkey or at any time when he was training at Saratoga for the Sharkey fight.

All Deserve Credit.
Leo Flynn, Jerry Luvadis and the boys who have assisted in getting Dempsey in condition, Dave Shad and the sparring partners all deserve a great deal of credit for getting Dempsey so good.

Dempsey completed his heavy training Sunday and today he went out on the road and also put in a few licks on the links. He is ready. The Dempsey who will make Tunney's last workout and my sum-up of his condition the subject of my next article.

$2,500,000 Gate Seen For Championship Go

Rickard's Dreams of $3,000,000 Turnout for Big Fight Fast Fading Away.

Chicago, September 19.—(United News.)—The ticket sale for the Dempsey-Tunney fight may not exceed $2,500,000.

A confident of Tex Rickard is responsible for the statement that the promoter will be not only satisfied but pleased if the total sale reaches that figure.

"Tex no longer is dreaming about $3,000,000 for this fight," the United News was told.

Rickard himself has become suddenly pessimistic.

A week ago Tex said the affair would be "a sell-out, sure."

This would mean more than three millions of dollars as the gross receipts.

Sale "Going Great."

Today Tex says evasively that the ticket sale is "going great." The promoter refused point-blank to tell how many dollars have been taken in already and the value of tickets remaining unsold.

"Can't do it," he insisted. "I don't know myself. They're selling tickets all the time." The fact is that the scheme of having 10,000 railroad ticket offices act as Rickard's agent in selling pastebords for the big fight prove a terrible disappointment.

Without diagrams of the stadium, the railroad offices in distant cities found few customers.

Anyone who was willing to buy "sight-unseen" preferred to take a chance on wiring their money to Rickard's headquarters in New York, where they hoped to purchase better seats than through the railroads.

Good Ones Gone.

When the diagrams were finally prepared and sent out all the seats in the good ringside sections had been sold, which was no stimulus to sales. And so the fight is not going to be the amazing money-making venture anticipated a few weeks ago. It is going to make money for Tex Rickard, for Gene Tunney and for Jack Dempsey, but the chances are that each of the three will receive less than he had hoped for.

GADSDEN TO CONDUCT PALESTINE APPEAL

Gadsden, Ala., September 19.—(Special.)—Appointment of S. W. Stamm as chairman of the United Palestine appeal committee to conduct the local campaign in connection with the national drive for funds, was announced here today, following a recent visit by Miss Anne Balsor, of Atlanta, assistant regional director of the U. P. A., aiding in the organization of drives for the southeast.

Rabbi Milton Emden will make the principal address when the appeal is launched here on the Jewish new year's holiday, Rosh Hashonah. This marks the first time that this community will participate in the annual drive for funds to rebuild a new national life in the Jewish homeland.

Montgomery, Ala., September 19.—(AP)—Eddie Carroll, Biloxi heavyweight, scored a knockout over Ernie Perrin, New Orleans, here tonight in the "third of a 10-round feature bout of a card staged under auspices of the American Legion. ## Tunney Hangs Up His Mitts, Set for Gong

Getty Says Gene Lacks Fire and Speed of Dempsey.

BY FRANK GETTY.

Cedar Crest Country Club, Lake Villa, Ill., September 19.—Despite his confidence and his fine physical perfection, Gene Tunney has failed to convince a majority of the visiting experts that he will knock out Jack Dempsey next Thursday night.

A last look at the heavyweight champion leaves the conviction that his best chance of successfully defending his title lies in confining himself to cautious, defensive boxing.

A last chat with Gene indicates that he has every intention of so conducting himself.

Will Watch Dempsey.
"I will watch whatever kind of fight seems to me best suited to offset the way Dempsey is fighting," Tunney said.

From what is known of the plans of the opposing camp, this means that the champion will be strictly on the defensive during the greater part of the fight.

One thing that Tunney made clear is that he will have no hesitation in winning on points, if possible.

"If I can't win on points, I may have to get up and slug with him," Gene admitted. "But I don't expect to go down."

The attitude of the champion's camp has resulted in leaning towards Dempsey as the probable winner.

Always a punishing fighter but never a slugger, Tunney has failed miserably to develop the semblance of a knockout punch during the year in which he has held the title.

It is well-known, of course, that Gene never has attempted to knock out his sparring mates. But considering the importance of Thursday night's encounter, it would have seemed logical for the champion to have experimented with a wallop or two which might send Dempsey limp and unconscious to the canvas.

Quitting the reverse has been the case at this pleasant little country club. If Tunney has a knockout punch in store for his opponent he is carefully keeping it under wraps. He has been seen from those who have watched his workouts with critical eyes.

As a matter of fact, Gene did not speak as lightly as some people may have thought when he said, upon arriving in Chicago, that he had come to engage in a boxing exhibition. If he is going through the champion as a exhibition and come out the winner on points, he will be satisfied.

Almost Like Jack.

In every way, save when his lack of the killer instinct is considered, Gene shapes up admirably for the defense of his title.

His physical condition matches Dempsey's, although he seems to lack the fire and speed of the latter.

Tunney has filled out across the chest and shoulders since this time a year ago. It is surprising that he should continue to grow stronger and better for fighting at the age 29.

Jimmy Bronson, who will be chief second Thursday night, was enthusiastic over this phase of the champion's development.

"Don't let them tell you Gene hasn't improved since the Philadelphia fight," said Jimmy. "He's better in every way."

But fighting form is something which depends upon other things than tape measures for judgment. It is what Dempsey had at its highest form in Toledo, and it is what Jack has been showing down the state a few miles at Crete.

Gene's mental attitude towards the coming fray continues to be well-nigh perfect. His calm remains unbroken. His pose perfect. His fatalism spools whatever tendency he might have towards an attack of nerves.

Not Worrying.

"I see no reason for worrying," Tunney repeated.

And so it seems that he is going into the ring to fight defensively at least until he sizes up his man and learns the worst of what he must encounter.

A lucky punch, such as upset Dempsey in the opening round at Philadelphia; a steady wearing down of Jack's strength until he no longer is dangerous; or the sheer necessity of throwing caution to the winds and slugging to save the title—one of these may bring Tunney out of his shell and make a battle next Thursday night.

DRIVE BY M'ADOO FOR BAKER SEEN

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

New York, September 19.—Tammman Hall, now for a drive for Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, by the forces of William G. McAdoo, retired candidate for the democratic presidential nomination.

Governor Smith's friends, who have been on the alert for the man who would carry on McAdoo's antagonism to the governor, are preparing to make their big convention fight against Baker.

The presence here of McAdoo and Edwin T. Meredith, of Iowa, former secretary of agriculture, a possibility for the democratic nomination is not believed at the wigwam to have a great deal of political significance at this time.

McAdoo and Meredith denied today that either knew the other was in town.

"Merely a coincidence," said the former. He added that he was in the city on business.

"I haven't seen Mr. McAdoo, and I didn't know he was in town," said Meredith. "I don't know whether I will see him. Certainly, if it is possible I should like to. But there would be nothing political in our meeting."

Granting that there is to be the concerted move by the McAdoo people on Governor Smith which Tammman regards as inevitable, the plans for it are not likely to be hatched in New York city. As one leader close to the Smith cause put it, "politicians don't go into enemy territory to arrange their battle program."

The letter of withdrawal from McAdoo interested the Smith forces tremendously, although it was argued that the writer himself was not out of it in the sense that President Coolidge was out in the republican race.

Ready

GENE TUNNEY

Having ended his hard grind of training for the fight Thursday night with Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight champion, Gene Tunney is now ready to step in the ring and defend his title. Tunney is satisfied with his showing in the final workout and looking forward to a victory over Dempsey.

NEW WORLD'S RECORD SET BY TROTTER

Lexington, Ky., September 19.—(AP)

One of the largest crowds attending opening day of the trots here in recent years saw Fire Glow win the twenty-fifth renewal of the Kentucky futurity. Fire Glow beat him the second one in 2:04, the world's race record for 2-year-old trotters, and beat Spencer in the third with a quarter in 30 seconds at the end of a mile in 2:07. The day was not ideal for a speed test, having turned suddenly much cooler and a strong wind met the horses as they raced down the stretch.

Driver Walter Cox, who had the mount behind Fire Glow, had a great day, winning the Walnut Hall cup with the 4-year-old Hazlet. The victory was comparatively easy with Minia Dillon as the main contender. The Ohio gelding Al B was a handy winner in the 2:12 pace, with Helene Direct winning the third heat after Al B went to the barn.

Pete Latzo Wins.

Canton, Ohio, September 19.—(AP)—Pete Latzo, former welterweight champion, outpointed Dick Evans, of Youngstown, in a ten-round bout here tonight. Evans gained an advantage in the early rounds, but Latzo overcame him and twice had the local boy in a bad way.

Lopez Shines In Brilliant Capitol Bill

The most brilliant audience that has foregathered in Atlanta since the auspicious opening of the new Capitol theater a few months ago, last Monday night, awoke and inspired, as Vincent Lopez, Frances Renault, George Austin Moore and Bobby (Uke) Henshaw demonstrated anew their rights to the title of "America's Four Greatest Entertainment Aces."

Not only all the years this reviewer has been theatergoing has he witnessed such acclaim, such enthusiasm, such unbounded appreciation as first-nighters at the Capitol showed for this week's bill.

Lopez, incomparable and matchless director and artist that he is, still reigns supreme in the realm of orchestra music in America and no one in that vast audience Monday night would deny his right to the title of leadership which popular acclaim has woven about his young head. To his orchestra as individuals and as an organization, this writer doffs his humble chapeau and wholeheartedly joins the chorus of those who hail his domain—Long live the king.

Francis Renault—a name that conjures the average American audience, has no peer as a feminine impersonator on the stage today. Arranged in gorgeous gowns that brought audible sighs and "ahs," and incidentally representing $50,000, Renault's finesse and great talent hushed his audience into awe. His act brought forth the most beautiful costumes Atlanta has ever seen and his clever mannerisms, humor that is unquenchable, and his acknowledged art, is something of beauty and interest to behold.

George Austin Moore, master of ceremonies for the week, artist par excellence and all round good fellow, was given a great ovation for his inimitable southern melodies, croonings and negro dialect ditties. George, known and loved by hundreds of Atlantans, and a conspicuous figure in theater circles over the country, packs a terrific wallop and as master of ceremonies exhibits that fine humor and cleverness which has endeared him to countless thousands.

Now for Bobby Henshaw—last, perhaps, but not least by a jug-full—either in ability or avoidability—is just about the funniest comedian and all round star the stage has brought out in the last decade. This plump chap has everything in his repertoire to give a laugh provoker and not a one of the missed fire last night. Indeed, it looked for a while during his act that Maxim silencers would have to be used to keep the high-hysterical crowd. He is funny, don't forget it.

And the "Lone Eagle" as a picture—my, what a woe of picture. It is a gripping narrative and rounds out a magnificent program.

Strolling backstage just before the curtain, we found Lopez and Renault—firm friends over long years and two of the most pleasing gentlemen one could wish to meet, discussing business in a serious vein. Renault has his own night club, as the Atlanta visitor the best known, while Lopez has his Casa Lopez and announced that he was opening the "Race Track" another night club in Gotham.

Renault admitted making his first "profit" as a performer here some years ago, while Lopez agreed that he liked Atlanta "next to New York." Henshaw was "pulling a wise one," and George Moore was insisting on injecting the Florida boom into the conversation. Truly, it is a great week at the Capitol. The greatest since the opening of the new theater.

HERMAN TIMBERG IS HARD WORKER ON GEORGIA BILL

Some wise-cracking gentleman once remarked "wonders never cease," and ever since it has been the custom to prove the truth of his gag, the latest instance being found at Keith's Georgia theater this week, where a show headed by Herman Timberg is really headed by the aforementioned Mr. Timberg.

His offering is termed "The Laugh Factory" and the principal cog in the laugh machine is little Herman himself, although he has a great deal of assistance from his hired hands, principally Sammy Timberg, Barbara Blair and Dorothy Morrison.

It is staged in "five shifts," and in each the talented Mr. Timberg appears; in fact, he appears very nearly all the time, which is k. o. with the people in the cash seats. Sammy Timberg, who is credited with the music of the show, shines very prominently in "The Decision," in which he is afforded the opportunity to demonstrate a real ability at the ivory keys.

The female contingent of the show is headed by Dorothy Morrison and Barbara Blair, both nifty comedians, and how the first mentioned can dance! She is sufficient reason for several telegrams home, or any other place. Susan Jane and the De Faye sisters are other reasons why the show is good.

Much credit is due to the gentleman who appears as the "ham" tragedian; he is responsible for a goodly portion of the laughs and the "Laugh Factory Band" is also nice entertainment. Of the last mentioned, the trumpeter, possessing both embonpoint and talent, is outstanding. "One Woman to Another," starring Florence Vidor, is the picture.

"THE BIG PARADE," CLASSIC OF WAR, THRILLS AT GRAND

There's little use in discussing this picture, "The Big Parade," in the same breath with other pictures depicting gripping and tense moments in the late world war. It is far and away ahead of them all, and it took a return engagement of the classic Loew's Grand theater to convince most reviewers that this production is certain to rank as one of the classic pictures of all time.

From the moment the action starts the interest of the audience is held with a firm grip by John Gilbert, Renee Adoree and Karl Dane, who do the best work of their careers in this great film. They were furnished with some superb heights in emotionalism by Laurence Stallings, the author.

For sheer drama there is nothing to surpass "The Big Parade" on the screen and for spontaneous and bubbling comedy it is a real classic. The heart of the picture is the romance of John Gilbert as an American soldier and Renee Adoree as a charming and vivacious French girl. The picture simply cannot be surpassed in the opinion of many experts, and they must be seen before they can be truly appreciated.

Those who left for false gods after seeing "The Big Parade" when it was here last year were tumbling back into the faith Monday after seeing it again, and the crowds are taking off their collective hats to the picture as the one real big masterpiece of the screen.

—PAUL STEVENSON.

M'LEAN FILM NOW AT RIALTO IS REFRESHING

"Something new under the sun" is exactly what Douglas MacLean is offering this week at the Rialto theater in his refreshingly novel Paramount comedy, "Soft Cushions."

Abandoning the formula developed by several screen generations of comedians, MacLean successfully pioneers in a brand new field with this story from the pen of the late George Randolph Chester.

Against the pictorially beautiful background of the Orleans-Plantation, in the role of a romantic young "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" plays a laugh-a-second comedy composed of equal quantities of romance, snuff, snuff, chuckles and good old-fashioned laughs.

The picture avoids the confusion of characters that has marred previous attempts to win laughs in orienting costumes and Director Eddie Cline, who piloted MacLean in "Let It Rain," has maintained the fast tempo demanded of present-day comedy.

Sue Carol, the Chicago beauty MacLean discovered and placed under a long-term contract, heads a notable cast which includes Richard, Carlwell known musical comedy star; Albert Gran, Wade Boteler, Russell Powell, Frank Leigh, Nigel de Bruin, Albert Priddy, Boris Karloff, Fred Kelsey and others.

DOLORES DEL RIO IS GOOD CARMEN, REVIEWER THINKS

When Prosper Merimee created the character of Carmen—with the heart of a woman, the mind of a child, and the soul of a woman—placed her in the romantic setting of old Spain, he created a character that is a difficult one to portray. Dolores Del Rio, taking the titular role in "The Loves of Carmen," screen attraction at the Howard this week, paints that character to the fullest extent.

It's Dolores, with her flashing, wandering eyes, lavish display of sinuous limbs, and her Spanish beauty that enacts her role admirably and carries the picture through from beginning to end.

Raul Walsh, who directed the picture, has done a better than usual job in this picture, and instead of twisting the story around into the stock "Love me and the world is mine" close-up with the end, follows the story as it was written. Virtue triumphs, but in an unusual way, when Carmen meets her death at the hands of Don Jose, a cast-off lover, while Escamillo, her only real love, is triumphing in the bullring.

Mister Al Short, genial bandshow man, has assembled a hodge-podge of entertainment—musical, of course—which he presents under the name of "Jazz Knick-Knacks." The Novelle brothers, musical clowns, furnish the high light of the bill with a novel effect, offering some tumbling while rendering a violin selection. Al and his orchestra put on a jazz version of "At Dawning" and parts of "Rhapsody in Blue." The offering met with fair success.

The main attraction at the Howard this week is Dolores Del Rio in her portrayal of Carmen, and one is entirely within the bounds of safety by stating that screen work such as Miss Del Rio's is seldom seen in Atlanta picture houses.

STONE "CAPITAL" AS HEADWAITER IN METRO FILM

Scramble tilt-nosed, high-hatted Bostonians, a poor but honest French student, a runaway marriage and consequent annulment and you have a fair start on the plot of "The Prince of Headwaiters," starring Lewis Stone at the Metropolitan this week.

Bring in a dash of romance between the son of that runaway marriage and a neighboring girl, the stern refusal of a proud grandmother to recognize his grandson's father, and a healthy bit of blackmail, by the old badger game, and you have the rest of the plot. The denouement to the story is a sad ending, though a happy one, if that does not sound too paradoxical.

Lewis Stone makes a capital headwaiter, the prince of his kind. There are some striking scenes in the Ritz, with ample comedy relief so as to make an all-round good picture.

One feels sorry for Lewis Stone at the sad ending, but then... it's only play acting, and a good cry does no one any harm. The picture is well up to the high standard maintained by the Metropolitan as a motion picture-only house.

The program includes the usual news reel and a snappy comedy of married life and a dumb but willing butler.

DEATHS OF SEVEN IN AIR LAID TO ENGINE FAILURE

Washington, September 10.—(United News).—Engine failure and loss of flying speed caused the Hadley field, N. J., airplane crash which killed seven persons, Major Clarence Young, commander department aeronautics director, who investigated the accident, reported today. In a preliminary report, he said:

"Crash Fokker plane in New Jersey was due to engine failure. The pilot endeavored to stretch the glide in order to land in a small field, but the plane lost its flying speed and slipped off the runway, thus falling to the ground from about 150 to 200 feet."

Coming to Metropolitan.

"When a Man Loves," starring John Barrymore, supported by Dolores Costello and a large cast, will be the attraction at the Metropolitan theater next week. This is the screen version of Abbe Prevost's immortal story of love and terror in the days when Louis XV. ruled France.

The costumes are replicas of originals loaned by the French government on Warner Brothers' $24,000 bond. Historically correct settings of an eighteenth-century Paris, the king's court at Versailles, streets, pastoral scenes and sequences on the prison ship and during the mutiny of the crew and many others are marvellous of photography.

Ponce de Leon.

Laura LaPlante, scintillating blonde star of Universal Pictures, is seen today at the Ponce de Leon theater in "Butterflies in the Rain," a neat little vehicle in which the blonde actress receives the excellent support of James Kirkwood. Miss LaPlante has a role in "Butterflies in the Rain" that is as lovely as the girl who plays her. There is also a great deal of delightful comedy in this picture.

Madison.

Wolfheart, the sensational dog star, is featured in "Bad Man From Bodie," which is playing a one-day engagement at the Madison theater in East Atlanta. This film is packed with thrills, action, comedy and the finest of melodrama, in addition to having a story that will please even the most discriminating. An excellent human cast is seen in support of the canine luminary.

Fairfax.

Tuesday popular Oliver Borden plays at the Fairfax in Oliver Curwood's widely read novel, "The Country Beyond." This Canadian northwoods story is a tale of adventure and romance. The French-Canadian orphan girl, whose beauty gains recognition behind the bright lights on Broadway.

Community Theaters.

Tenth Street—The film version of "The Fool," the play that created world-wide comment upon the occasion of its presentation on the New York stage several seasons ago, is to be seen for the last time today at the Tenth Street theater. Edmund Lowe is seen in the featured role of "The Fool."

West End—"Three Bad Men."—A great epic motion picture of the pioneer days of the west will have its last showing at the West End theater tonight. Reproducing as it does the opening of the Indian lands for white settlement immediately after the war, it is a historically accurate picture of those stirring times.

Palace—A revelry of joy and laughter is the treat for all who see "Summer Bachelors," written by the author of "Flaming Youth," which is concluding its run at the Palace theater tonight. The story has for its premise the idea that husbands do not languish home nights when their better halves are away on their summer vacation.

Chronic Head Colds

A Simple Method of Prevention

There is no disease more offensive or disagreeable, or no disease that will lead to as much serious trouble as catarrh or chronic cold. It often produces chronic headaches and deafness, affecting the eyes and voice, and frequently weakening the lungs. Get rid of catarrh by a simple, safe, pleasant home remedy, discovered by Dr. Blosser, a catarrh specialist.

Dr. Blosser's Remedy is composed of medicinal herbs, berries and flowers, which you smoke in a small pipe or cigarette.

The smoke vapor is inhaled into the nose passages of the nose, head, throat and lungs, and carries medicinal herbs, berries and flowers, which you smoke in a small pipe or cigarette.

It is so simple, each. Its effect is soothing and healing, and it contains no tobacco or cubebs is perfectly harmless, and may be used by women and children as well as men.

If you suffer with catarrh, catarrhal deafness, asthma, hay fever, bronchitis, or if you are subject to frequent colds, get your drug store a pocket size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes. Prove for yourself their pleasant and beneficial effects.—(adv.)

Piles Go Quick

No Cutting or Salves Needed
External treatments seldom reach the cause. The cause is inside—the veins flabby. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby. The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send fresh, healthy blood to the raw, sensitive membranes. Internal treatment is one safe method. Outward and other external treatments can't give lasting relief.

J. S. Leonard, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in hundreds of cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Jacobs' Drug Stores, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.—(adv.)

REDFERN ARRIVED AT ORINOCO RIVER

Caracas, Venezuela, September 10.—(P)—While nothing definite has been heard of Paul E. Redfern, Georgia aviator, in more than three weeks, officials here believe the airplane seen over the Orinoco river delta on Saturday afternoon, August 27, undoubtedly was the Brunswick-Brazil flier.

It is pointed out that the Venezuelan army planes were in their hangars at Maracay at that time and if a plane from Trinidad was in that district, it would have been reported.

All the information so far received is contained in two telegrams addressed to General Colmenares Pacheco by Senor Valero, chief of the telegraph station at Ciudad Bolivar, which is the capital of the state of Bolivar and lies about 200 kilometers west of the point where the airplane was reported seen.

Mail Carrier's Story.
The telegrams stated that the government mail carrier who left Barrancas for Tucupita, saw an airplane pass over the Macareo river going in the direction of Boca Grande, the largest mouth of the Orinoco river. The time was 2 o'clock in the afternoon when Redfern, if still aloft, had been flying approximately fifty and one-half hours. His fuel, therefore, was near exhaustion, and he could not have flown far in the opinion of the officials.

When seen the airplane had a hundred miles of jungle ahead, traversed by numerous narrow rivers, where landing would be absolutely impossible except on the water. It was reported flying on the Barrancas-Tucupita line going in the direction of the main mouth of the Orinoco, or southeasterly as the crow flies. If Redfern held to the east sufficiently he would have struck the ocean where Boca Grande empties, while if he veered to the south he would have a thousand miles more of jungle across British Guiana into Brazil.

Big Storm Arises.
One hour before the plane was sighted, or 2 o'clock, a violent storm was reported to have broken all over the delta region. Therefore the plane was in the storm at the time it was seen. First seen by the mail carrier, the craft afterwards was reported to have been sighted by inhabitants of the small village of Macareto which is in the same locality.

Because it is all thick jungle and mostly under water at this season from the overflow of the Orinoco river.

Only Information.

When word was received of Redfern's flight, General Pacheco, who is director general of telegraphs, instructed the operators in the Orinoco basin to keep a watch for the plane. The only information so far received follows:

"Ciudad Bolivar, August 28, 5 p. m.
"General Colmenares Pacheco, Caracas.

"I transcribe to you the following telegram received and dated yesterday: Tucupita. The government mail carrier who left Barrancas today for this town informs that at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, approximately, he saw an airplane pass over Macareo (river) going in the direction of Boca Grande. Signed: Valero.

(telegraph operator at Tucupita). Signed: Valero.

"Ciudad Bolivar, August 30, 5:25 p. m.
"General Colmenares Pacheco, Caracas.

"It was Saturday, the 27th, that the airplane was seen. Moreover, besides the mail carrier, the inhabitants of the village of Macareto saw it, going in the direction of Boca Grande. The same day after 2 o'clock a violent storm broke over all that region. They are trying to obtain further details. Signed: Valero.

Ordered to Hospital, Mineral-Tone Removed Need For Operation

Atlanta Man Reports Amazing Recovery From Terrible Stomach Trouble.

JOHN C. BURDETT.

Mr. John C. Burdett, of 877 Dancy St., Atlanta, in overwhelming gratitude for the almost miraculous relief which Mineral-Tone brought him, relates his remarkable experience.

"I am glad to tell suffering humanity just what Mineral-Tone has done for me. Mineral-Tone avoided an operation for me. Last year I had six X-rays made of my stomach and was advised by doctors to have an operation. I was ordered to the hospital. Look at me now. My friends are all congratulating me on my wonderful recovery.

"I was a victim of stomach trouble and constipation for 10 years before I found this wonderful mineral medicine. I don't believe there was a worse case of stomach trouble in the City of Atlanta. After a meal I had the most excruciating pains across my stomach—it would burn like fire. I would bleed from gas, my breath would come in short gasps and cutting pains would shoot around my heart. I could not eat one bite of meat or acid foods. In fact, during this time I went for thirty days without eating one bite of food, just milk.

"One day a friend told me about Mineral-Tone and asked me to give it a trial. I want to say that 4 bottles of this medicine have taken in the last 10 days.

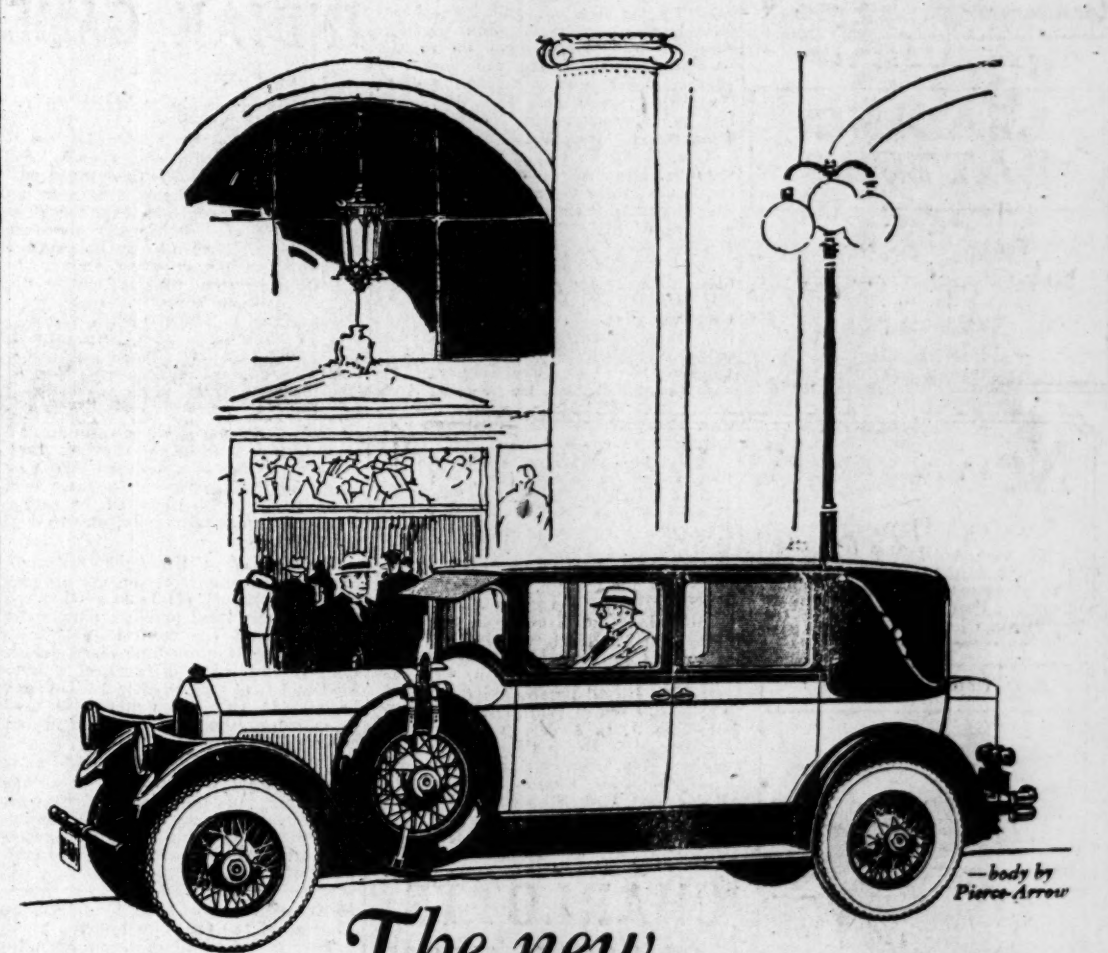

"I took 4 bottles and gained 12 pounds. Three weeks ago I felt as good as I do now. In my whole life I do today. I never gave such a statement for publication before, but if anyone wants to talk to me in regard to the above, just tell them my phone number is HEMLOCK 9774-W."

Mineral-Tone Helps Where Man-Made Medicines Fail.

There is nothing mysterious about the seemingly miraculous recovery of Mr. Burdett. It is just a case of Nature's marvelous healing powers, for Mineral-Tone is not a man-made preparation.

It is a combination of pure minerals which Nature herself has fused together in the course of years of patient labor in her laboratories in the bowels of the earth. It is 100% iron, really absorbed by the blood, driving out the terrible acids which accumulate in the blood, and giving you a new sense of human life. If you have failed to find relief from man-made medicines, give this great natural remedy a trial. In beginning the Mineral-Tone treatment it is best to thoroughly cleanse out the system first with Min-Lax, the tonic laxative.

The new Sport Sedan Landau combines the charm of many cars

As if to summarize, in one model, all the charm for which Pierce-Arrow has so long been noted, the five-passenger Sport Sedan Landau proudly takes its place among today's foremost motor cars.

The superb Pierce-Arrow body of hand-hammered aluminum—to which the low, rakish, leather landau back, adorned with Victoria irons, imparts a smart continental flavor—is mounted on the famous 130-inch Series 80 chassis, with its mighty, silent engine.

In every detail, the richly appointed interior is fully in keeping with a car of such spirited aspect.

Handbuilt, the Sport Sedan Landau not only evidences the traditional Pierce-Arrow quality in beauty and finish; but through the years and over the miles it will be found far more economical to own and to use than an ordinary car. It may be had in a wide range of color and upholstery.

Only a limited number will be available this season. Orders, of course, must be filled in rotation. Ask us to turn a Sport Sedan Landau over to you so that you may see for yourself how splendidly it meets your requirements.

Standard Series 80 chassis. 14 to 17 miles per gallon of gasoline. 15,000 to 18,000 miles per tire. Nation-wide Pierce-Arrow Flat Rate Service effects great operating economy. Houdaille double-acting shock absorbers and special Pierce-Arrow 4-wheel brakes are standard equipment.

The price of the Sport Sedan Landau is $3025 plus tax and transportation. Wire wheels and cover lamps extra.

Other cars up to $8000

Social Festivities Feature Weddings and Party Series

Social affairs for brides and brides-elect and visitors feature today's calendar, with Miss Jane Small's bride-tea to Miss Eleanor O'Brien whose marriage to Benjamin Charles Miller will be an event of October 12, beginning a series of gaieties planned for this attractive young girl. Miss Jane Sutherland Roebuck, of Jacksonville, Fla., is to be honored guest at the bride-tea given by Mrs. Elbert Tuttle at the Piedmont Driving club. The marriage of Miss Louise Buchanan and Thomas Fletcher Proctor, Jr., takes place at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride-elect's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Coggins, in Ansley Park, and will assemble a large group of relatives and intimate friends to witness the ceremony.

Teas at Habersham hall sponsored by the D. A. R., and the social meeting of the Agnes Scott club at Mrs. J. Sam Guy's on North Decatur road will serve to interest organized women, whose activities make up a large factor of today's program.

Miss Pendleton Weds Mr. Campbell.

Berkeley Springs, W. Va., September 19.—A wedding of interest was solemnized at noon Wednesday, September 14, at "Mountain Rest," home of the bride's father, when Miss Eleanor Albert Pendleton, daughter of Nathaniel Pendleton, became the bride of Hugh Siler Campbell, of Atlanta, Ga., formerly of Berkeley Springs.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles F. Pennington, of Meridian, Miss. The bride, wearing a traveling gown of "Landy" blue crepe, with hat to match and carrying a bouquet of snapdragons, yellow roses and blue delphinium, entered the drawing room with her brother, Tolbert Taylor Pendleton, of Fort Worth, Texas. She was met at the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage. The groom was attended by his brother, Harry Van Meter Campbell, of Charleston, as best man. Following the ceremony a three-course luncheon was served, the bride and groom leaving immediately afterward for a motor trip in the north.

Mrs. Campbell is a descendant of Judge Edmund Pennington, of Virginia. Since her graduation from St. Paul's school she has traveled extensively, both in this country and abroad. Mr. Campbell, who is the son of the late Rev. H. C. V. Campbell and Mrs. Flora Siler Campbell, is manager of the Atlanta branch of the Universal Motor company. He is a graduate of Hampden-Sydney college and a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity. He was a member of the United States air service in France during the world war and later was director of vocational rehabilitation of the veterans' bureau in the Philippines.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell will be at home after October 1 at Wycliffe road, Collier Hills, Atlanta, Ga.

Miss Douglas' Photo In Washington Post.

Sunday's issue of the Washington Post carried in the section devoted to society a lovely photograph of Miss Adelaide Douglas, only daughter of Mrs. David Blair, and one of the most popular and admired debutantes of last winter in Washington. ### Wolcott-Amason Wedding Plans And Parties Are Announced

The announcement of the wedding plans of Miss Anne Shirley Wolcott and Guy Holt Amason, whose marriage will be solemnized Wednesday, October 19, is of wide social interest. The ceremony will take place at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, with the Rev. Dr. Sproule Lyon, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating, at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walter Wolcott, on Ridgeway road. Miss Harriet Ann Baylor, cousin of the bride-elect, will be maid of honor and Hubert Amason will act as best man. Master Ernest Pagan, Jr., and little Miss Jean Geiger will be the two ribbon bearers. Following the marriage service, Mr. and Mrs. Wolcott will entertain at a reception, after which Mr. Amason and his bride will leave for a motor trip.

Preceding the wedding the lovely bride-elect will be honored with a number of delightful social affairs. Mrs. Albert Fore will compliment Miss Wolcott at a bridge party Tuesday, September 20, at her home on Fifteenth street. Mrs. Lester Geiger will entertain with a shower Tuesday, October 4, at her home on North Decatur road. ## New Gentle Treatment Prevents ...

Now an amazing new treatment brings you a skin of an adorable whiteness—banishing every blemish, every defect, every hint of sallowness and discoloration. Already over a million women are using this gentle new discovery to keep their skins sparkling, radiant white the year round. These wonderful new treatments help you to achieve a fresh, lovely skin—quickly, easily. They make a harsh, dry skin, soft and clear—an oily skin, white and fine of texture. And they leave the skin vigorously healthy and alive—with a gorgeous, pearly sheen—a delicate lustre—a lovely coloring!

Banish Freckles—Blackheads—Blemishes

A unique new, harmless formula—Golden Peacock Bleach Cream—gently draws out blemishes, clearing and whitening the skin with amazing quickness. And at the same time it acts to eradicate pimples, blotches, roughness, freckles and blackheads. Smooth a little on your face, hands and arms before retiring for five nights. Soon your complexion will take on a smoothness and a clearness that will astound you!

To Prevent Wrinkles and Age Signs

Just recently it was discovered that wrinkles, crow's feet, flabby tissues and age signs were due to a starved condition of the skin. But now a way has been found to feed the starved skin—to make the dry, withered cells soft and supple again. A wonderful new Tonic Cream—Golden Peacock Tonic Cream—has a stimulating effect on the skin—arousing the sluggish, starved cells to new life. Start using this wonderful Tonic Cream today. See how a few days' application will renew the firm, youthful appearance of your skin.

Treatment for a Harsh, Dry Skin

There is nothing quite so soothing for a dry, thin skin as a new three purpose face powder, Golden Peacock Cold Cream and Face Powder, which is actually made from cold cream. This new powder can be applied with a puff, yet the pure, soothing oil in the cream prevents absorption by the pores. And it stays on. Comes off only when you remove it—leaving the skin nourished and improved—with a fine, velvety texture.

Oily Skin Banished

An oily, shiny skin is now unnecessary. For now a new treatment—Golden Peacock Astringent—banishes large, coarse pores and shiny, oily noses. The character of the skin is refined, and flabby tissues are tightened. Brings tone and clear glow of youth to skin.

Five Day Guarantee

Now you can have the joy of a perfect skin—the thrill of a flawless, glowing, radiant complexion! Start using these splendid treatments tonight. Use them for 5 days. Then, if you are not delighted with your money will be refunded. For sale at all good drug and department stores.

THE GUMPS—THE BRIGHT FACE OF DANGER

They Wouldn't Believe

SYNOPSIS.

On the way to Donald Briery's house for luncheon Connie Elmore, Donald's fiancée, tells her friend Olive Weston that Donald stands a chance of inheriting a half a million from the estate of old Harroway, a friend of Donald's father.

Olive and Connie share a flat in London. Olive is secretly in love with Donald but sincerely pleased at Connie's good fortune in winning him.

Sandie and Querk, solicitors handling the Harroway estate, are crooked and plot to cheat Donald Briery of the fortune by having a spurious heir appear whose claim is prior to Donald's. In the midst of the plotting Augustus Briery, Donald's father, presumed to have died when the Titanic sank, calls on Sandie. Querk suggests to Sandie that he invite Briery to Harroway house and there, with the assistance of Querk's tool Wode, dispose of Briery.

Connie decides to visit her old nurse, who is now caretaker of Harroway house. Mrs. Jones is out but Connie finds the key and lets herself in to wait for her. She hears strange noises in the library and goes to investigate. She sees Mr. Sandie and another man kill Mr. Briery, whom she recognizes from his portrait. Rushing out of the house Connie stumbles into Mr. Querk. While telling her story Querk notices the bell and sends a signal to the murderers. Connie sees a policeman and calling him to the three proceed to the library and Connie asks Querk to open the secret panel in the wall where she had seen the man place the body. It is empty. Querk accompanies her to the police station, where she tells her story to the police superintendent. Querk intimates that she imagined the scene and in exasperation Connie goes to Wode's office and presents his alibi which the police officer accepts. The two lawyers proceed to Wode's office where old man Turle and his son, the spurious heir, await them. The old man dies just after they walk into the office and Sandie and Querk leave by the back door.

The next morning Connie calls on Querk and meets young Jones in his office. She recognizes him as her old nurse's son but does not know that he has been posing as Henry Turle, Jr. Querk later pretends that Connie imagined the scene and young Jones, he tells Olive that Sandie is about to bring a criminal suit against Connie unless Olive, as her nearest friend, has her committed to a private institution which he recommends.

INSTALLMENT XXXII.

An Agonizing Hour.

Olive was ready for her ordeal. There would be no flinching, no fumbling. She must trick Connie, watch her every movement, trap her. Every artifice must be used against the girl for whose sake she would willingly have laid down her own life had Fate demanded that sacrifice.

But Fate did not demand that sacrifice. Fate demanded that she play the Judas to her friend, lull her into a false security and then snatch away her liberty. Connie had announced her intention of leaving at 10. Olive contrived to delay breakfast until half-past 9.

"All ready when you are!" she called, and Connie in hat and coat came into the sitting room carrying her light attaché case.

Olive glanced at her as she came in. She looked surprisingly fresh in her tailor-made traveling suit, but the dark lines were still under the eyes and her walk was the truest and most unsteady.

"Did you get any sleep?" asked Olive anxiously.

"More than I thought I should," admitted Connie, "but don't you worry about me, dear, I shall be able to sleep by the sea."

"Take plenty of books," warned Olive. "I've been more bored at seaside resorts than anywhere else in my life."

It was not strictly true. At the seaside she had met Donald and had yielded her soul to a dream. That dream had come true, not for herself, but for Connie.

So she kept up a bantering chatter and Connie was by no means unresponsive. Connie was eager to be away, and her spirits had perceptibly revived with the bustle of going.

Olive kept looking at the clock. Twenty minutes to 10! She launched into an account of an imaginary episode at the office.

All the time she was talking she was taking acute notice of trifles. She could hear the tenant of the flat below leaving for the office. Her senses were alert to detect and forestall any possible interference with her plan. The grim thought came to her that an intending murderer must feel as she was feeling at that moment.

"Well, in a way, I am planning a murder," ran her unspoken thought. "I'm going to murder Connie's faith in me."

Ten to 10.

"Try and eat all you can. You've only had one piece of toast and you didn't eat all the bacon."

"I can't manage any more," smiled Connie, grateful for her friend's concern. "I think I'll go out and call a taxi."

"Don't be in a hurry. Wait till I've had a flag!" entreated Olive.

"You have the flag while I fetch the taxi," said Connie, and jumped up.

Olive did not stir. Her eyes were on the attaché case. Connie would come back for that—and getting the taxi would have the valuable effect of wasting time. To waste time now—until 11 o'clock when Sir Theodore Jelks would come—seemed the paramount object of her life.

It was five minutes to 1 by the time Connie returned, followed by a taxi driver.

"I'm afraid it will be two journeys," she heard Connie saying. "The trunks are in this room."

Olive continued to smoke her cigarette while the taxi man grunted and shouldered a trunk. Then she got up and left the room. Connie was in the corridor and came toward her. Now was the critical moment.

"Olive, darling, don't you bother to come down," said Connie. "The man will be up for the other trunk in a moment, but I'll go and get it."
